Hitchhikers Take Motorist's Car

NEW MADRID — A 1972 Ford Mustang owned by Harvey G. Rollins of Baldwinville, N.Y., was stolen early Wednesday just south of New Madrid, according to the New Madrid County sheriff's office.

Rollins said Sunday afternoon in California he picked up a couple hitchhiking to New Jersey. Rollins and the pair traveled together and decided to go to New Orleans. They stopped along Interstate 55 late Tuesday night at a rest area near Marston and slept in sleeping bags.

The couple reportedly awoke at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday complaining of mosquitoes and went to the car to sleep. Rollins said he thought nothing of it and went back to sleep.

At 6 a.m. he awoke again, found the car gone, but again dismissed it, thinking the couple had gone for something to eat. He slept until 10 a.m. and did not report the theft until then.

The car contained $125 and credit cards.

Five Hurt In Three SeMo Accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in three traffic accidents on Southeast Missouri highways Wednesday, according to highway patrol.

Alvin Grossheider, 74, of Cape Girardeau and Alice Garner, 24, of Chaffee sustained minor injuries when their cars collided at 6:05 a.m. on Highway 25 one mile south of Gordonville. The accident occurred as Grossheider attempted to make a left turn into a private drive and was struck in the right side by the Garner car.

At 4:30 p.m. on a road one mile east of Aquilla in Stoddard County, a motorcycle driven by Johnny Geary, 16, of Dexter struck a pickup truck driven by Bill Harris, 45, of Bloomfield. Geary received bruises on his left leg and was treated at Dexter Memorial Hospital. The vehicles met on a curve and Geary sideswiped Harris.

On Highway 67 four miles north of Greenville at 7 p.m., a car driven by Daniel Pogue, 24, of Festus rounded a curve, struck a bridge railing and went down an embankment. Injured were Richard Buch, 27, of Wentzville and Lawrence Brothers, 24, of Manchester. Both were treated at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Chicken Thief Strikes

PERKINS — A chicken thief has turned up in Scott County for the first time in nearly 15 years, according to Sheriff John Dennis.

Dennis said 29 chickens were stolen sometime late last week from a pen belonging to Tom Smith of Perkins. Smith had 40 chickens in the pen which were going to be frozen soon. The thief ran off with all but 11 of them.

Dennis seemed somewhat puzzled by the theft because neighbors did not report hearing any unusual noise during the probable time of the theft.

The sheriff said he will be investigating any chicken fries held in the county since the theft.

Early Beans Ready

Corn Harvest Begins

Harvesting of corn is under way in the Bootheel and early soybeans are ready for combining in Missouri.

Information received this week from the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Columbia indicates 40 per cent of the corn is mature, compared with 60 per cent a year ago. Harvest is two per cent complete, compared with five per cent last year.

Over 10 per cent of the corn in the Bootheel has been harvested.

Twenty-five per cent of the soybeans are turning color, substantially less than last year when 47 per cent were turning color. Eleven per cent of the crop is mature, with less than one per cent harvested.

Last year, two per cent of the beans were harvested by this time. Most of the harvest has been in the northeastern fourth of the state.

Grain sorghum is 34 per cent mature and lags way behind the 57 per cent mature this time last year. Well over three fourths of the sorghum is mature in the Bootheel, while barely five per cent has matured in the northeastern part of the state.

Twelve per cent of the cotton bolls are opening compared with 22 per cent a year earlier. Weather has been favorable and bolls are opening rapidly on sandy soils. There have been some reports of insect damage to cotton.

Bunker To Bunker

Fighting Rages At Quang Tri

SAIGON (AP) — South and North Vietnamese forces were locked in savage, bunker-tobunker combat at Quang Tri today, field reports said. It was the third straight day of heavy fighting there.

South Vietnamese marines have made no progress since Tuesday when a company of about 200 men fought their way into the southeastern corner of the 19th century Citadel.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen, reporting from the front, estimated the South Vietnamese held only about two acres of the 50-acre fortress.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the Saigon command, said marine reinforcements got into the Citadel, but field reports said these were replacements for casualties. There were no indications the North Vietnamese were able to get reinforcements into the Citadel.

Officers told Jensen nearly 700 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in fighting in and around the Citadel during the past five days. The South Vietnamese were said to be losing about 25 men killed and 125 wounded each day.

The South Vietnamese had anticipated clearing out the Citadel by the weekend, but it now appears it will take much longer. Tropical storm Flossie is due in the Quang Tri area over the weekend, and is expected to curtail American air strikes.

Nearly 50 U.S. B52 bombers struck on both sides of the demilitarized zone in support of the South Vietnamese at Quang Tri.

The eight-jet Stratofortresses hit at North Vietnamese supply dumps and troop positions at points ranging from near the port of Dong Hoi to within one mile of Quang Tri, dropping more than 1,100 tons of explosives.

U.S. fighter-bombers pounded rail lines and supply depots between Hanoi and the Chinese border for the fourth successive day Wednesday, including one of the main distribution points for war materials moving south from China, the U.S. Command reported.

The command also announced the loss of a Navy A7 during more than 310 air strikes throughout North Vietnam Wednesday. The jet was hit by antiaircraft artillery fire 80 miles north of the DMZ. The pilot bailed out and was rescued.

It was the 94th American plane the Command has reported lost over the North since the resumption of full-scale bombing April 6.

U.S. Air Force pilots reported they destroyed or damaged half a dozen barracks and support buildings in the major raid of the day against the Hau Lan storage and barracks complex 40 miles north of Hanoi.

Earlier, the Cambodian command claimed that American planes knocked out 35 enemy tanks in the same region. The U.S. Command said it had no such report.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

LIBERALS AND
THE ENEMY

Left-wing journalists have long argued that newspapers using the term "enemy" to describe Communist forces in Vietnam are being unfair. The Communists, they reason, are simply the other side. That 50,000 Americans have been killed by the enemy — oops — by "infiltrators," does not seem to matter.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR opts for euphemisms like "opposing forces." Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore and other big city papers ban "enemy" from headlines or editorials. THE NEW YORK TIMES, avoids the word. Many think it a plus that the TIMES has yet to describe U.S. troops as the enemy.

United Press International foreign editor Wilbur G. Land says that "we're reporting on what the two sides are doing and neither is the enemy of UPI." Can you imagine his reaction after Pearl Harbor? "In all conscience, we can't call the Japanese forces our enemies. After all, no bombs fell on UPI."

Some newspapers still use the word, though. Says one: "If troops are firing at Americans, we certainly can't consider them friendly. They're in the category of enemy."

The flap over "enemy" is only the latest example of liberal bias. They do not lie; they simply distort by deleting certain aspects of a story. Last year, for example, all we heard was that President Thieu was unpopular. Only occasionally did stories of his wide support, expecially among refugees from the North, leak out.

We read about farms mistakenly bombed and the GI drug problem. Both are true, but we seldom hear of calculated enemy atrocities, or the numerous voluntary GI orphanages. Deleting these items, the liberal media give us a distorted picture. No greater example exists than My Lai and Hue.

The American killing of some 120 people is the most followed-up story in the history of modern war journalism. The 1968 Communist massacre of 2000 people at Hue was little covered at the time, and now is virtually forgotten.

It is no wonder that the liberal media dislikes calling the Communists our enemy. To these opinion molders, the enemies of American troops are almost friends.

COMMON MARKET
REMEMBRANCE

Even as it prepares to enlarge its membership for the first time, the European Economic Community is pausing to commemorate a landmark in its development. On Tuesday, Sept. 19, the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the European Coal and Steel Community will be celebrated in Luxembourg. Fittingly enough, the speakers will include Jean Monnet, first president of the community's executive body and the leading architect of European unity.

The six Western Europe nations which later formed the Common Market signed a treaty setting up a Coal and Steel Community on April 18, 1951. It took effect the following year. Within the community, producer agreements to restrict competition were outlawed, and free movement of experienced coal and steel workers from country to country was safeguarded. Tariffs and quantitative restrictions on imports and exports of coal and steel within the community were eliminated over a five-year period.

The success of the coal and steel venture encouraged the community to widen its horizons. Under the Treaty of Rome, signed March 25, 1957, the Six established the European Atomic Energy Community and the European Economic Community, or Common Market. And now the Six shortly will become the Ten. Britain, Denmark, Ireland and Norway signed a treaty last Jan. 22 gaining entry in the Common Market, Coal and Steel Community, and Atomic Energy Community. The treaty is to take effect Jan. 1, 1973, subject to ratification by the four applicant nations. After two decades of experience, Western Europe has learned that in unity there is strength.

CUTTING COLLEGE
COSTS

As colleges open for the fall term, reports of their financial distress become more frequent and more urgent. About 300,000 places will go unfilled this year, with small, independent schools especially hard hit. With revenues from tuition down, and operating costs up, educators have been forced to re-examine traditional college programs and explore new and less extravagant possibilites.

In one such attempt, four U. S. colleges will experiment this fall with the British Open University program. Rutgers University plans to offer courses in the humanities, mathematics and science -- all to be pursued at home with the help of television, tapes, radio and printed instructions. Anyone may sign up and receive college credits upon completion. The University of Houston, the University of Maryland and San Diego State College also will try out variations of the program.

Proponents of the independent, accredited study underline its financial, as well as educational, advantages. They point out that at Britain's Open University, now starting its second year, only a small fraction of the total budget goes for salaries and fringe benefits -- the largest portion of a conventional university's outlay. "The question is how to educate more people, more effectively, but with less money," says Arland F. Chris - Janer, president of the College Entrance Examination Board of New York.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, in a report issued last June, suggested several ways to cut costs at conventional colleges without sacrificing quality. They included: (1) reducing the undergraduate course from four to three years; (2) abandoning expensive new PhD programs; (3) increasing faculty workloads; and (4) weeding out "reluctant students." That last task may not be too difficult now that the draft is being ended and increasing numbers of degree-holders are unemployed.

CALCULATE TO KEEP UP WITH JONESES

Forget about the electric carving knife or kitchen trash compactor. The latest status symbol the Joneses are buying like crazy is the miniature household electronic calculator. And after 330 years, it's about time.

It was in 1642 that French Scientist and philosphoer Blaise Pascal attempted to add with a machine. As late as 1969, it was impossible to find a good calculator for under $1,000.

Now, thanks to dramatic breakthroughs in microelectronics in recent years, machine costs have dropped to less than $200 and their size has shrunk accordingly. Some new models will fit in a shirt pocket.

Who needs an electronic calculator? Everybody, say the manufacturers. With only a basic knowledge of math and a calcualtor, you can, for example:

Compute the exact square footage needed to carpet a room; the precise amount to draperies required for a window, including pleats, or material for a dress; the exact amount of paint needed for a shed or house, or fertilizer for a lawn.

A calculator can also streamline budgets and cut costs in the buying of a great variety of household items.

For instance, which is the best buy in a supermarket - a four-pound "giant" box at 98 cents or a 38-ounce "large" size at two for $1.14? In the flicker of a digital display, the calculator knows that the giant box actually runs 24½ cents a pound, whereas the large size is only 24 cents.

Other uses: Calculating the most efficient way to make time payments, invest in stocks and bonds, gauge savings account and interest rates, keep checkbook balances error-free, tabulate income tax, help kids learn math, make on-the-spot computations of bowling or batting averages.

"We're confident," says Sam Carlson, president of North American Rockwell Microelectronics Company, "It (the miniature calculator) will have the same impact on the average person as the power saw did on carpenters and builders."

That's not just a lot of sawdust.

In 14 states and federal jurisdictions the number of people on the welfare rolls soared by 20 per cent or more. In 20 others the increase was between 10 and 20 per cent. Only in nine states did the rolls decrease.

70s CRITICAL IN
REVAMPING CITIES

By the year 2000, it is predicted, something like 98 per cent of the population will live on one per cent of the land in the United States.

The phenomenon of this century is a reversal of what took place in the 19th century, when pioneers left the eastern cities to seek now opportunities on the free or cheap lands in the West. Today, growing numbers of the underprivileged are leaving rural communities and heading for the industrial centers, there to become either a dynamic force for progress or a cultural time bomb.

At the same time there is a countermovement. The middle classes are abandoning the urban centers in droves, mainly because the opportunities for decent housing and decent living are becoming increasingly limited.

We are reaching the point where the very wealthy and the very poor will inhabit our cities. If no remedy is found, the middle class will enter the cities only to work during daytime hours, returning to the suburbs at night and leaving the cities devoid of the human "input" so vital to their social and economic health.

Federal and local governments are trying to stem this outgoing tide as well as to accommodate the influx from the country, but the ability to solve the problem rests with the private sector to a much greater degree than is generally recognized. In fact, how successfully private interprise can enterprise contribute to the solution is one of the most important issues facing America in the Seventies.

Fortunately, there are numerous examples of what private enterprise, in co-operation with local government, can do. Pittsburgh's renovation of its Golden Triangle is probably the most famous. Others include the Golden Gateway in San Francisco, model cities programs in Gary, Ind., and Seattle and the revilalization of the St. Louis waterfront.

One of the most ambitious of all, however is "Illinois Center," now abuilding within walking distance of Chicago's famed business district, "The Loop." along the south bank of the Chicago River and overlooking Lake Michigan. What makes this project unique is that it will be located on 80 acres of air rights purchased from the Illinois Central Railroad, a subsidiary of IC Industries, one of three companies participating in the venture.

Illinois Center will have the ingredients to make it a self-sufficient community, from residential units to offices to stores and schools and parks. It will be larger than most Illinois cities, with a permanent population of between 35,000 and 50,000 and a daytime working population of about 80,000.

Not since the reconstruction period following the Great Fire of 1871 has any development of such magnitude been attempted in Chicago. It will cost an estimated $1 billion and take about 20 years to complete.

The nation's "Second City" is getting a new second city of its own , and in the doing may show other cities how they can get a second lease on life.

Our party senators voted down President Nixon's request for a minimum wage of $2.00 an hour. How will they vote when the Democrat sponsored bill for a minimum wage of $2.20 an hour comes up? Right here in Shelbina there are a lot of small businesses, including our own, which will have to reduce the number of people employed if the wage minimum jumps from $1.60 to $2.20. And why is it our Senators want to pay more? To get the support of Union Labor. We hope you read the Readers Digest editorial copied at the end of this column.

TROOPS IN EUROPE

It has been reported in the news media from various points of the globe that Red China would like for the U.S. to maintain strong ground forces in Western Europe. The sources of this information say Peking wants to deter Russia from moving her armies in Europe to the Sino -Soviet frontier. The reasoning sounds logical as far as the Chinese are concerned.

All of this may be well and good for the communist Chinese but we should not let them influence our policy. Whether our leaders officially recognize it or not, Chinese communists and the Soviet Union are still our great potential enemies. We should not accommodate either.

The general staff of our military establishment should determine our troop dispositions. If U.S. troop presence is necessary in Europe, then it should be maintained. This, of course, is a separate issue from foreign aid. The latter was conceived by liberal, one -world politicians as a do -good act and its announced motive was to thwart the advance of communism. This it has not done. Instead, it has simply drained off tax dollars from the citizens of this country.

Our present troop dispositions in Europe probably could not stop a determined Russian offensive to overrun our allies, but they could hinder them until such time as the formidable power of the U.S. could be brought to the fore. It should not be forgotten, also, that we have solemn treaty obligations to the people of Western Europe. We have no formal obligations to continue foreign aid. We had none to start with and the termination of this program would be a step forward. We should have ended it long ago. HLH

Posh Mystery Man:
Hoffa's Park Ave. Operative
Has Entry To
Kissinger and Le Duc Tho.
Why? How?
By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK —In a posh part of town, behind unlisted phones, there operates a mysterious international adventurer. His trail has led us and a couple of interested "chaps" to Argentina, Switzerland, this city's Park Avenue and right across the world from Southeast Asia to the Southwest United States -- and to James Riddle Hoffa.

Apparently this arcane operative, 60 -year -old William L. Taub, also has Hanoi connections. Especially Le Duc Tho, one of the most powerful members of the North Vietnamese Communist party politburo. Taub lives well, eats well and has little difficulty getting into the best circles.

On July 5, he and the Teamsters fourth vice president, big husky, graying Hal Gibbons lunched with none other than Dr. Henry Kissinger --and in San Clemente no less.

Now a flashback. Well over a year ago, the President's national security adviser --who knows more of Richard Nixon's international secrets that anyone but Richard Nixon --began talking about including Gibbons, who was Hoffa's house intellectual, in the contingent accompanying President to China. There were protests and Dr. Kissinger, whom some have accused of being too coy, too cute, too winging, too often, promised a friend that Gibbons would not go to Peking and that he would not be welcome in Dr. Kissinger's headquarters.

Then in March Gibbons suddenly turned up as one of three American labor men in Hanoi. There, it can be reported, he met with Le Duc Tho and officials of the so -called North Vietnamese Federation of Labor. The Americans were told Hoffa could come and when "the time was ripe" there would be a slow release of prisoners of war, and the former Teamsters chief now out on parole from a million -dollar Teamsters pension fund fraud conviction could have his share of POWs --and the glory.

Gibbons returned to work on the project --obviously aimed at obtaining a pardon for Hoffa and the eventual recapturing of the Teamsters from Frank Fitzsimmons.

Hoffa loved it. He wants the Teamsters presidency so badly he can taste it. The timetable is all set --Hoffa will be eligible for a full pardon three years after he was released from Lewisburg Penitentiary. That will be in December 1974. Then he plans to go back to his home Local 299 in Detroit. Then Gibbons is to step down from the presidency of the big Teamsters Central States Conference (regional organization) and Hoffa is to take over. And when the Teamsters convention is held July 1976, Hoffa will make a grand entrance and be swept into the general presidency.

All it would take would be a Presidential pardon which would restore Hoffa's full rights. Or the easing of Justice Dept. restrictions on his parole --namely, the right to be active inside his union. Already his Detroit probation officers just love that man. He's the "greatest." They believe Hoffa has the right, even now, to mix in the labor movement. And apparently Maurice Sigler, chairman of the Federal Parole Board, is just as gung -ho about Hoffa. So Jimmy got permission to leave the country for 30 days.

It's a good bet that Sigler will not again give Hoffa so much admiration and freedom.

Somewhere along the line between March and July, the mystery man, now reported in New York, now Washington, now Paris, Bill Taub, enters the script. At the July 5 luncheon in San Clemente, he and Gibbons showed Dr. Kissinger -- whom the highest White House sources the other day, trying to be kind, called just plain silly --some papers purported to evidence that the Hanoi labor movement has invited Hoffa to come over and return with some POWs.

Dr. Kissinger was warm as the California sun. He beamed. He approved. And two weeks later in Paris he said as much to Le Duc Tho --who previously had attempted to use Gibbons and two other U.S. labor men to carry a face -to -face message personally to President Nixon and so position the American chief executive.

With Kissinger's permission in hand --and please note that Dr. Kissinger outranks even the Central Intelligence Agency --Gibbons and especially the mysterious Taub began operating.

Taub, who appears to have considerable income, telephoned Teamsters president Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons at the union's board meeting in Rancho La Costa, Calif. The caller said he wanted 20 minutes with Fitzsimmons -- who hasn't talked with Hoffa but six or seven times since Jimmy left prison some 10 months ago. Fitz said he wouldn't give Taub 20 seconds. And added that anything Hoffa does he does on his own.

Fitz of course knows that Hoffa has been bad -mouthing him. Then Taub went to the parole board and got permission for a trip to Hanoi by Hoffa, accompanied by himself and Gibbons. Then at the Justice Dept. he saw Ralph Erickson, Deputy Ass't. Attorney General in the Office of Legal Counsel. And Taub opined that Hoffa could come out with a big brace of war prisoners covering everybody with glory and certainly worth lifting parole restrictions.

President Nixon knew nothing of this. Neither did Secretary of State Rogers or his labor advisers. The operation was stopped.

There are, however, significant questions. Who is Taub? Where does he practice law? Who is his principal? How could he get to Le Duc Tho so easily?

And why did Dr. Kissinger, who carries so much of the world's fate, lunch with a man he really doesn't know, whom he did not check out, and who has so many mysterious adventures in his docket?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON —The Palestinian guerrillas have deliberately sought to provoke Israeli reprisals against Lebanon, in the opinion of U.S. Ambassador Bill Buffum in Beirut, in order to create "an illusion of activity" and to encourage "the continued flow of subsidies from the rest of the Arab world."

Their forces, never a serious threat to Israel, have been in disarray since King Hussein drove them out of Jordan in September, 1970. Now congregated largely in Lebanon, they draw lightning from Israel and keep the Middle East in ferment.

Ambassador Buffum sent the State Department a secret summary a few months ago of what's going on in the guerrilla camps in Lebanon. He reported that "fedayeen strength in South Lebanon, despite continual fluctuations, is now probably higher than at any time in the past" but that "their fighting spirit seems to have remained at low ebb."

He told of "the unedifying spectacle of confusion, dissension and bitterness that pervades the fedayeen leadership" and described "jealousy and disturbances developing between Fatah elements long stationed in South Lebanon and those recently arrived from Jordan and Syria." There have even been gunfights, he reported, between commandos.

"As if all this were not enough," the ambassador added, "the fedayeen have found their main outlet for releasing their frustrations -- forays into Israel --blocked almost entirely be security measures undertaken by the Lebanese and Israeli armies."

— TIME —FUSED ROCKETS —

He reported that "virtually the only vestige of fedayeen activity aimed against Israel is the practice of launching time -fused rockets from behind Lebanese army OPs." But he suggested that "Lebanese army patrols are now able to find and defuse about 80 per cent of these rockets."

The U.S. embassy believes, cabled Buffum, "that current fedayeen activity in South Lebanon is designed to serve two purposes, neither of which has much to do with inflicting injury on Israel.

"The first seems to be to create an illusion of activity that will maintain the fedayeen 'mystique' and ensure the continued flow of subsidies from the rest of the Arab world.

"The second would appear to be to provoke Israeli retaliation against Lebanese border villages, in the hope of angering the inhabitants and exposing the Lebanese army to charges of 'do -nothingism' in the face of enemy assaults.

"Achievement of the first aim seems to have met with only limited success. While the resistance movement as a whole is certainly not on the verge of bankruptcy, there are indications that the payment of salaries and alowances to individual fedayeen is seriously in arrears . . .

"As far as the second aim is concerned, its realization seems to have eluded the fedayeen thus far. Bitterness against the Israelis and the GOL (Government of Lebanon), of course, is widespread in South Lebanon. But the populace has not been slow to realize the main cause of their present difficulties.

They are prone to blame the fedayeen for provoking Israeli retaliation on their crops and houses without even being able to claim the slightest damage to Israel itself."

— THOUSANDS WITH GUNS —

While Buffum discounted any serious fedayeen threat to Israel, he warned: "There still remains for the Lebanese the difficult problem of what, if anything, to do about the growing number of commandos --6,000 at last count and still rising --camped in South Lebanon ... who are supported by an amorphous mass of armed Palestinians in refugee camps throughout the country."

Lebanese authorities, he reported, "have not dared to set foot in any of the country's 15 refugee camps for the past two years."

The solution? Buffum observed that some militant Arab leaders believe "Lebanese leaders are only biding their time, hoping that future circumstances will permit them to deal with the Palestinian Resistance Movement in the same manner that King Hussein was able to deal with it.

"In our view, the Lebanese government intends nothing of the kind. Most of its leaders hope instead that something somehow will happen that will enable the problem to go away and remove the necessity of their having to cope with it."

What worries the ambassador is mounting fedayeen sentiment, "particularly among those elements that make up the Fatah 'opposition,' in favor of the concepts of area -wide terrorism and revolutionary activity long advocated by ... radical fedayeen leaders."

He cited intelligence reports that Algeria, Iraq, North Korea and South Yemen were providing "financial and meterial assistance directly to the PFLP (Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine) and other avowedly revolutionary organizations with nary a qualm about the adverse effects such assistance might have on this country's delicate political system."

Footnote: It was the PFLP that sent three Japanese terrorists into the Tel Aviv airport, where they gunned down 28 innocent passengers and wounded another 70 in a machinegun attack.

4 War Opponents On Way To Hanoi To Pick Up Three American Fliers

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Four militant opponents of the Vietnam war were en route to Hanoi today to bring home three American fliers the Communists have promised to release. The wife of one POW and the mother of another accompanied them.

The group left New York Wednesday night. They were to stop briefly in the Danish capital and to arrive Friday in Hanoi for a two-week stay, according to the head of the delegation, Cora Weiss, cochairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in Vietnam.

The POWs to be released are Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28; Navy Lt. Norris A. Charles, 27, and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34.

Accompanying Mrs. Weiss were Gartley's mother, who is from Dunedin, Fla., and Charles's wife, from San Diego, Calif. Elias's father, who lives in Valdosta, Ga., said he could not make the trip.

The remaining members of the delegation are David Dellinger, the other cochairman of Mrs. Weiss' committee: Richard Falk, professor of international law and practice at Princeton University, and Yale University's chaplain, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin Jr.

Coffin said he had "no precise idea" why the North Vietnamese were going to release some Americans for the first time in three years.

"My guess," he said, "Is it would be a way of trying to tell the American people: 'We are prepared to release prisoners. It's three today and it's over 400 tomorrow.'"

Coffin urged that the U.S. government reciprocate with a temporary halt in the bombing of North Vietnam while the group is in the country.

Mrs. Gartley was carrying presents for six prisoners other than her son. Mrs. Charles, when asked what presents she was taking, said: "I'll be the greatest present for my husband - except for our daughter." Their 3-year-old Kersten is staying with relatives in Tampa, Fla.

End War Proposal Appears Certain To Die In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposal to cut off U.S. money for the Indochina war in four months appeared headed for certain defeat today in House action on a $74.6-billion defense bill.

Other amendments to the biggest military money bill since World War II included one to override the House Appropriations Committee and let the Army, Navy and Air Force turn over GIs' KP duty to civilians.

"This may be the last chance of this Congress to speak out and end the war," said Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., author of the end-the-war amendment, in the opening debate Wednesday. "The loss of one more life cannot be justified."

But Addabbo acknowledge off the floor that his amendment, identical to the one being pressed by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., had almost no chance of approval in the House.

It would cut off all money except the amount needed to withdraw U.S. forces from the Indochina war in four months if Hanoi released American prisoners and gave an accounting of missing GIs.

The House on Aug. 10 rejected an amendment setting an Oct. 1 troop-withdrawal deadline. The 228-178 vote showed that the House cannot muster the votes for a policy stand against the war, much less the votes to cut off money for the war.

In his opening statement, Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., described the bill as "the largest money bill that has ever been presented to any legislative body in the history of the world."

Defense bills in the House totaled $101 billion at the height of World War II but were split into separate War Department and Navy Department measures.

The $74.6 billion for the fiscal year starting last July 1 is $4.3 billion below President Nixon's request and $1.8 billion above last year's figure.

Sixteen Casualties Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported 16 American casualties in Vietnam last week, including one man killed in action, four dead from nonhostile causes, three missing or captured and eight wounded.

It was one of the lowest U.S. casualty counts since the North Vietnamese offensive began five and a half months ago.

However, reported South Vietnamese casualties were the highest in a month, and the Saigon command claimed the biggest enemy death toll since mid-June.

It reported 3,449 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed and 99 captured last week, while government losses were put at 638 men killed, 2,204 wounded and 97 missing.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,857 killed in action, 303,380 wounded, 10,269 dead from nonhostile causes, 1,785 missing.

South Vietnamese—154,963 killed, 405,450 wounded.

Success Is Relative

BY SHAREN K. MCNALLY, BENTON AREA HOME ECONOMIST

Work hard, listen to orders and you'll be a success. He worked hard for it and deserves it. Sound familiar??

This work ethic often pervades material success and precedes "justly deserved" success in many people's opinions.

But success is relative, individual and personal. It's your answer to the problems of making your minutes, hours, days and weeks, months and years add up to a good life. It is discovering your best talent, skills and abilities and applying them where they will make the most effective contribution to your fellowman.

How can one go about finding his "niche" in life? This question is felt most poignant in adolescence and teen -age years. Too old for child -like unawareness and too young to take a position alongside adults; impulsively independent and self assertive, what can pre -teens do?

At each stage in life, certain skills, understanding and attitudes are helpful for further development.

The teen -ager needs to achieve certain of these "developmental tasks":

1. Accept one's changing body and learning to handle oneself skillfully in variety of recreational, social and family situations. 2. Achieve a satisfying and socially accepted masculine or feminine role. 3. Fine oneself as a member of one's own generation in more mature relation with one's agemates. 4. Achieve emotional independence of parents and other adults --learn to be an adult among adults.

5. Select and prepare for occupation and economic independence --in line with individual abilities and goals. 6. Prepare for marriage, family life, or life of one's own. 7. Develop intellectual skills and social sensitivities necessary for civic competence -- a socially responsible person. 8. Develop a workable philosophy of life that makes sense in today's world. Find self in the universe and among one's fellowman in meaningful ways.

Call your county extension center for a leaflet on "Developmental Needs of Teen -agers".

Maggots Save Woman's Life

GUELPH, Ont. (AP) — Maggots, a onetime medical remedy used to clean wounds, helped save the life of Denise Sprayson as she lay pinned in the wreckage of a car for five days, Dr. G.L. Stewart, area coroner, said today.

The maggots, swarming over the shattered face and limbs of the 37-year-old Maxwell, Ont., woman, prevented blood poisoning, Stewart said in an interview.

She was reported progressingly favorably in a hospital after being trapped under the rear wheel of an auto following a wreck that claimed the lives of her husband and two friends.

Mrs. Sprayson was found by a motorist who stopped to walk his dog. Inside were the bodies of her husband, Frank, 42, and George Albert Price, 40, of Princeville, Ont.

The body of Mrs. Gordon Willicombe, 37, of Hopesville, Ont., had been thrown clear of the car when it failed to make a curve and plunged down an embankment 26 feet from the road.

The barking of the excited dog attracted attention Sunday to the accident, the first indication of what had happened to the foursome since they were reported missing last Wednesday.

"We are quite pleased with her condition, though she's still in a somewhat shocked condition," said a hospital spokesman. "She is responding well to treatment."

Stewart said her wounds were "loaded" with maggots and her discomfort during her periods of consciousness must have been "beyond imagination."

Undoubtedly this helped save her life," he added.

Telephone Reassurance Program Planned

Plans are being made to start a Telephone Reassurance Program for senior citizens in the comminity.

Mrs. Kathleen Wissman, Heritage House director, Mrs. George Moorman, Mrs. Ed Aldridge and Mrs. Clay Matthews met Wednesday morning at Heritage House to make plans for the volunteer program which will regularly call elderly people or incapacitated persons who live alone to check on their well being.

If the person called does not answer at the appointed time, an emergency lifeline will go into immediate action, and as prearranged, a neighbor, nurse or policeman will make a house call. If a medical crisis is discovered, a doctor is called and relatives are notified.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for this program is asked to call Mrs. Wissman at 471—8059.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Parmenter

Parmenter-Lathum

Old fashioned baskets of mixed flowers formed the setting Sept. 3 for the wedding of Miss Sheila Lathum and Joel Parmenter in First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Otto Dvorak performed the double -ring ceremony before a gathering of relatives and close friends.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Maxine Lathum of Sikeston and Ezra Lathum of Matthews and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Daugherty of Sikeston. Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Parmenter of Sikeston are parents of the groom.

Mrs. Elmer Childress, organist, played the traditional wedding march and accompanied Mrs. Dalton Shirey as she sang, "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Laddie Lathum, wore a gown fashioned like the one her grandmother wore 64 years ago on her wedding day. The gown was made of white polyester accented with inserts of lace re -embroidered with pearls. She wore a white picture hat and carried a bouquet of crescent design of daisies tied with white satin bows.

The bride chose as her only attendant, Miss Jana Moyers, who wore a pale blue dress similar to the bride's gown. She also wore a picture hat of blue and carried a bouquet of roses and rainbow asters.

Best man was Sam Parmenter, brother of the groom. Ushers were Gray Lathum, brother of the bride, and Lynn Colley. Assisting in registering the guests was Miss Julia Summers.

Immediately following the ceremony, members of the wedding party were guests at a dinner given by the parents of the bride and groom at Bloomfield Country Club.

A buffet table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional bride and groom with arrangements of daisies and tapers in shades of blue.

The new Mrs. Parmenter graduated from Sikeston High School and was employed as a legal secretary to Dwight Crader. Parmenter graduated in 1970 from Sikeston High School and is in the U.S. Air Force stationed in Tucson, Ariz., where they are making their home.

Ann Landers

Affection Can't Be Measured By Use Of Endearment Words

Dear Ann Landers: I think you were too hard on the young woman who begins letters to her in -laws with "Hi ....." instead of "Dear ....." and closes with "So long for now" instead of a more intimate sign off. Your notion that she did not feel warmly about her in -laws may have been incorrect.

Some people grow up without affection. They are not accustomed to words of endearment. It is very difficult for these people to express themselves in tender terms, even though the feeling is there. My own father referred to my mother as "Mrs. ..." when he spoke of her to others. She referred to him as "The Doctor." After reading your column for several years I would bet that your family was a close one --and affectionate. Am I right? --San Diego Reader

Dear San: Yes, you are right. In all the years I was growing up I never once heard my mother or father call one another by their given names. My father called my mother "Momma" --and she called him "Papa."

Many people have written to say I was too hard on the letter writer, and it may well be they are correct. Thank you for calling this to my attention and helping me see the situation in a more compassionate light.

Dear Ann Landers: May I add "Bravo!" to "Mad" who urged the reading public to get more facts about their education systems and how they operate. I do believe "Mad" made an error when he referred to unemployment compensation for teachers. A person can draw unemployment compensation only if his previous employer has contributed to the state funds which provide that compensation.

Most school systems and higher education institutions do not contribute for teachers. A teacher who is out of work is out of luck --and usually out of money. This is just one more sacrifice in benefits one must make if he chooses a career in education. Believe me, Ann, the rewards in teaching are NOT financial. The progress and growth of the promising young students are the only real satisfactions in the field of education. --A Teacher With No Regrets

Dear Teacher: In my opinion, education in America is in a bad way. Teachers are the most under -appreciated group of employees in this country. They guide the destinies of our nation's most valuable natural resource --its youth. Yet when budgets get tight they are lopped off like cordwood.

Every day I receive hundreds of letters from 10th, 11th, and 12th graders that look like ransom notes. We have a whole generation of kids in America who don't know how to read, can't spell and are not aware that every sentence should have a verb. This is what comes from overcrowded classrooms, teachers without certificates or degrees, and the permissive approach by incompetents who can't enforce discipline. I say there is a serious crisis in the field of education and we'd better get with it.

Dear Ann Landers: You told a girl who wrote to you about her boyfriend's sexy moustache and beard that it was a matter of taste, but that you didn't care for all that hair. My husband thinks you are great so he went and shaved off his beard. I loved his beard and I'm furious.

People write to you for counsel, not personal opinions. Stick to your work, Kiddo. --Billings

Dear Billie: Your husband should be interested in pleasing YOU, not me. Tell him to let it grow.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze And You -- For Teen -Agers only." Send 35c in coin and a long, self -addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper with your request.

Revived Bill Moves To House Floor Today

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A $21.5 million appropriations bill, revived Wednesday night behind closed doors after being tabled for a week, moved to the Missouri House floor today.

The bill still has far to go in the special legislative session called by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. It has to be pefected by the House and have a third reading and then passage. Then it must go to the Senate Appropriations Committee and to the Senate, where it is expected to undergo futher changes. Final House action is expected Friday.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 25-8 after a Democratic caucus to reverse last week's 17-10 vote to table the bill.

The committee trimmed $2.4 million from Hearnes' $23.5 million request, but added $390,000 to speed consolidation of school districts and $150,000 for Northeast Missouri State College. The money for the Kirksville campus would go to offset a revenue decline caused by a decrease in out-of-state students.

The Democrats, Howard Garrett of Festus and Marvin Proffer of Jackson, joined six Republicans in voting against the bill. Of the 25 yes votes, five were cast by Republicans.

The House Majority Leader, Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, indicated the bill would be recommended to the floor with a provision for no amendments. If this were allwed, the bill would have to be rejected on the first vote before it could be amended.

There was a plea for unity among Democrats in the caucus.

"We made a serious attempt to bring before the body a bill they could go back home with and present to the people as genuine immediate needs," said the committee chairman, Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland.

The bill would next go to the Senate, which was to reconvene today shortly before noon. The House would be finished, leaving the Senate to consider the appropriations bill, a veto override, and the governor's appointments. The special legislative session began Sept. 6.

Another big cut was $398,000 from the Public Defender Program, which would set up 13 public defender offices. The governor had asked $1 million to fund the program, passed in the last general session.

Nearly all the budget requests were to fund bills enacted by the legislature. The $3.5 million measure for the University of Missouri, $550,000 in heating plant improvements for Lincoln University and $203,000 for Northwest Missouri State University were added by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes but were left intact by the committee.

The university had asked last winter for $535,600 to offset expected revenue declines caused by fewer non-resident students this school year at the Maryville campus.

The committee left $2.7 million in the University of Missouri request, including $1.3 million for libraries and equipment, $200,000 for the dental school, $300,000 for the Environmental Trace Substance Center and $125,000 for a biological science program at the Kansas City campus.

Other major items cut by the committee were $16,000 for the Department of Revenue, leaving $17,400 of a budget request to finance a speedup in account reporting, $10,900 for extra statistical reports supplied by the State Comptroller, $46,000 from a $136,000 request from the Division of Mental Health for licensing of nursing and boarding homes to care for the mentally retarded, and $54,000 for the Department of Corrections to allow inmates to leave prisons to visit doctors, ill relatives and to take classes.

The committee also cut about $150,000 from salary increases for clerks at the State Supreme Court and the four appeals courts. Committee members said the money could come from increased court costs.

Left intact by the committee were:

—$42,000 in salary increases for the 46 liquor control agents.

—$1.1 million for highway patrol salary increase.

—$309,500 for railroad crossing improvements.

—$59,000 to enable the Clean Water Commission to match a federal grant.

—$7.2 million to fund increased state payments for nursing home patients.

—$550,000 for air conditioning and heating plant work at Lincoln University.

—$1.2 million to increase state aid from $320 to $400 a year per student in junior colleges.

—$1 million for renovating the west side of the Capitol.

—And $2.6 million to implement a bill authorizing salary and retirement benefit boosts for magistrate and probate judges.

Democrats voting for the bill were William Friese of Ferguson, John Blassie of St. Louis, William Casey of Potosi, William Crigler of Fayette, Robert Devoy of Brookfield, Charles Dickey of Mexico, Donald Hancock of Doniphan, Tony Heckemeeyer of Sikeston, Clarence Helflin of Independence, Joe Holt of Fulton, Norbert Jasper of Washington, Herman Johnson of Kansas City, Frank Mickelson of Freeman, James Russell of Florissant, Tom Ryan of Kansas City, Earl Schlef of Dellwood;

James Skaggs of Ellington, Richard Smallwood of St. James, Fred Williams of St. Louis and Cantrell.

Republicans voting for the bill were Vernon King of Ray County, Vernon Betz of Trenton, Harold Dickson of California, R. J. King Jr. of Clayton, and Carroll McCubbin of Eldon.

Democrats voting against the bill were Howard Garrett of Festus and Marvin Proffer of Jackson.

Republicans voting against were Ronald Belt of Macon F. L. Brenton of Cuba, Gus Salley of Warsaw, Keith Stotts of Pierce City, Gravil Vaughan of West Plains and Robert Young of Carthage.

David Ziegenhorn New Head Of Young Voters For President

The resuming of fall school activities has brought a slight realignment within the Scott County chapter of Young Voters for the President with the naming of David Ziegenhorn as the new chairman of the organization.

David will take over the primary coordinating efforts of promoting young adult support for the re-election of President Richard M. Nixon, similar to the work handled by Leslie Johnson through the summer months.

Leslie's return to college for the fall term does not mean an end to her campaign activities on behalf of the President. She will take an active role in campus efforts and also participate in Scott County projects when home for weekend visits to Sikeston.

David is a senior at Sikeston High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ziegenhorn of 505 Tanner St. He is a member of National Honor Society, Student Council, Drama Club and New Forensic League.

In addition to these activities, David was a delegate to Missouri Boys' State and is a member of the staff of the Bulldog Barker, the high school newspaper.

The post of chairman may be new to David, but the organization is not, for he has been active under the leadership of the prior chairman since the local chapter was established early this summer.

The announcement was made this past week by Carl Koupal of Flat River, regional field director of the YVP program in Southeast Missouri. David will participate with leaders of a three-county area this weekend to discuss plans for the final seven weeks of the Presidential campaign, during which he will not only work with members of his chapter to stir interest among other young adults, but also cooperate with the Republican Central Committee in the local campaign for the re-election of President Nixon.

Queen Isabella, who sponsored Columbus' discovery voyage to the New World, appears on one American coin, the Isabella commemorative quarter-dollar minted in 1893 at the request of the Board of Lady Managers of the Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

CONTEMPORARY HISTORY CLASSES from Sikeston High School toured The Daily Standard facilities this week. This group was guided through the press room by Mrs. Judy Gazette, regional editor at the Standard.

Home Builders Meet

EAST PRAIRIE — At a meeting of the Bootheel Home Builders Association held recently in Mississippi County, President Fred Heise pointed out the need for the association in the area.

Guest speakers were Vester Phillips of Morley, vice president; Sherman Hill of Sikeston, building inspector for Farmers Home Administration in the Scott - Mississippi County Office; and Charles E. Tucker of Portageville, housing director of Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation.

Another meeting will be held prior to a future six-county meeting.

The 1974 American Bowling Congress tournament is set for Indianapolis.

Bypass Location Approved

MALDEN — Approval of the location of the proposed Highway 25 bypass for Malden has been made by the Missouri State Highway Commission.

The location is as follows:

Beginning on present Highway 25 at or near its junction with a country road about 1.2 miles south of the south city limits of Malden, thence northeasterly on new location, crossing U.S. Highway 62 approximately six tenths of a mile east of present junction in Malden, thence northerly, crossing a county road about one mile north of U.S. Route 62, thence northwesterly to a connection with present highway about one quarter mile south of the Country Club golf course.

Maps, plats, environmental statements and other detailed information prepared by the State Highway Department or interested agency will be available for public inspection and copying at the office of the District Engineer of the State Highway Department, Highway 61 North, Sikeston.

Social Security Information To Be Available Friday

Under the new Social Security law, future increases in monthly payments will be tied to the cost of living. If the cost of living increases three or more pre cent in a year, Social Security checks will also increase, starting the following January--unless a general benefit increase was enacted or became effective during the prior year.

Of course, those getting Social Security payments now will receive a 20 per cent increase on checks delivered in early October.

For more information, a Social Security representative will be at Sikeston Activity Center.

Hart's Inc. Sold

MEMPHIS — L. S. Hartzog, former owner of Hart's Bakery at 4871 Summer, has sold Hart's, Inc., Atlanta- based firm of which he is chairman and president, to Heublein, Inc. of Hartford, Conn. for 200,000 Heublein common shares valued at about 12 million dollars.

He formerly owned Hart's Bread of Sikeston.

Hartzog said he will continue to head the firm, which has plants in Atlanta, Dallas and Columbus, Ohio. Hart's, Inc. annual sales are about 10 million dollars, he said. The company, founded four and one- half years ago, makes yeast- raised biscuits for more than 2,100 Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in 49 states, including Alaska, Nassau, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Heublein, Inc. some time ago acquired Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp.

In 1966, Hartzog sold Hart's Bakery to Interstate Brands Corp. of Kansas City. Later he started a chain of Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in Memphis, Oklahoma City and Houston, but sold them to the then parent corporation.

Hartzog, who recently moved from Memphis to Atlanta, owns a chain of Hart's Steak Houses in Atlanta, Jacksonville, Fla., Pascagoula, Miss., and Mobile, Ala.

Washington Report by Senator Symington

WASHINTON, D.C.- Many of the more than 160 legislative measures that have been enacted thus far in the second session of the ninety-second Congress seek better solutions to some of our domestic problems.

SOCIAL SECURITY. Beginning Oct. 3, more than 700,000 Missourians will receive a 20 per cent increase in Social Secruity benefits under legislation enacted this past July.

The increase will mean an average monthly benefit of $270 for a retired couple over the $233 monthly benefit now being paid. The minimum monthly benefit will be raised from $70.40 to $84.50. The average retired individual worker's $133 benefit will be increased to $161. Average benefits to widows will rise from $114 to $137.

The Social Secruity program touches the lives of nearly every American. More than 27 million men, women and children -- one out of every eight Americans -- now receive monthly cash benefits.

UNEMPLOYMENT. Congress acted again to assist those who continue to be unemployed because of lact of work by extending for six months the time period during which unemployed individuals may receive emergency unemployment compensation.

EDUCATION. The Higher Education Act authorizes over $12 billion over a three year period for a variety of assistance programs to universities and colleges and estabishes a new National Institute of Education, modeled on the National Institutes of Health, to provide coordinated educational research and development in the field of education.

The measure provides financial assistance for both educational institutions and for students.

An innovative program of Basic Education Opportunity Grants provides a sliding scale of federal assistance for those students admitted to an accredited institution of higher education, based on need.

DRUGS. Development of a comprehensive,coordinated, long- term Federal strategy to encompass both effective law enforcement against illegal drug traffic and effective health programs to rehabilitate victims of drug abuse is the major objective of the Drug Abuse Office and Treatment Act.

The new law establishes a Special Action Office for Drug Abuse within the executive office of the President to plan and supervise federal efforts related to drug abuse, education, training, treatment, rehabilitaion and research.

ELDERLY. Inadequate income and lack of nutritional knowledge both contribute to the hunger and malnutrition problems of Americans. Since as many as 25 to 35 per cent of the aged live in poverty, they are particularly affected -- one of the reasons why Congress enacted a nutrition program as a part of the Older Americans Act.

Grants to states have been authorized for the purpose of paying up to ninety per cent of the cost of establishing and operating nutrition projects to provide low- cost, nutritionally sound meals to individuals 60 years of age or older.

The bill authorizes $250 million through fiscal year 1974 for this program.

YOUTH. This spring a bill was enacted to lower the minimum age requirement for federal jury service from 21 years to 18 years.

This law requires each judicial district with a prescribed plan for random selection of jurors to refill its master jury wheel with names obtained from the 1972 registration lists.

The 26th Amendment to the Constitution giving persons 18 years and older the right to vote was ratified July 1, 1971.

SICKLE CELL - ANEMIA. The National Sickle Cell Anemia Prevention Act authorizes $85 million over a three- year period to be distributed in the form of grants and contracts to public and nonprofit private agencies, organizations or institutions to assist in establishing or operating voluntary sickle cell anemia screening and counseling clinics. In addition, $30 million has been authorized to conduct research programs for improving the diagnosis, treatment and control of this disease.

The unfortunate victims of sickle cell anemia are primarily members of the black population. Among the symptoms are swelling of the joints, stunted growth, hemorraging, blindness, and stroke. Most patients fail to live beyond the age of 20 and only rarely do they live beyond age 40.

Much needs to be done to combat this disease which has been a fact of American life, at least since the first case was diagnosed 60 years ago.

BLACK LUNG. Pneumocniosis, the "black lung" disease has become all too well known as the disease of the coal miner.

Extension of the coal mine benefits to orphaned children and other dependents of victims and greater flexibility in standards for eligibility as provided in this session's Black Lung Benefit Act should help stem the rejection rate of black lung claims for benefits.

In Missouri, over 200 coal miner claims for federal compensation due to the occupational hazard of black lung have been approved since enactment of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969. Nevertheless, about half the claims filed in our state and throughout the country have been denied in the past three years because afflicted miners have not been able to meet stringent requirements for federal benefits.

James Madison became known as the "father of the Constitution" because of the role he played in establishing the U.S. Constitution. The World Almanac recalls that Madison took daily notes of the sessions of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and greatly aided in framing the document which incorporated many of his suggestions in its final draft.

Nixon -Shriver?!

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A slip of the tongue momentarily put Sargent Shriver in the Republican camp here.

At a reception Wednesday for South Texas political leaders, he said California labor union officials had told him not to worry about their votes.

"They said, 'We will carry California for Nixon and Shriver,'" he told the crowd, which immediately whooped and laughed.

Shriver quickly corrected his mistake.

Hopalong Cassidy Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not the man people remember as Hopalong Cassidy," actor William Boyd often said in turning down interviews after bouts with cancer and Parkinson's disease. "They'd be shocked at the difference."

Boyd, who achieved international fame as the silverhaired Hoppy in 92 motion picture and television films, died Tuesday night, a few months after he entered a South Laguna Beach, Calif., hospital.

He was 77.

Complications from Parkinson's disease and congestive heart failure were reported as the immediate cause of death.

Funeral services, which were expected to be private, were being arranged.

Boyd, who became interested in children, preached the homely virtues to them.

"They way I figure it," he said, "if it weren't for the kids I'd be a bum today. They're the ones who've made my success possible. They're the ones that should benefit from it."

Boyd donated part of his fortune to children's hospitals and homes. He founded a club called Hoppy's Troopers that had an idealistic code of conduct.

High ethics were a part of the Hopalong Cassidy characterization, which ran for 25 years in movies and on television and radio.

Hopalong pursued bad guys relentlessly, but he tried to bring them back alive. If forced into a showdown, he let the villain draw first. Smoking, drinking, swearing or romantic involvement were taboo for Hoppy.

This insistence on clean living came rather suddenly for Boyd, and he credited his fifth wife, Grace, whom he married in 1937, with reforming him.

Boyd, the son of a poor farm laborer in Hendrysburg, Ohio, had come to California "to see how things were on the rich side."

Growing up in Hollywood turned out to be wild spending, gambling, four marriages and divorces. His good looks and brashness made him a romantic idol, star of such films as "The Volga Boatman," "King of Kings" and "Two Arabian Nights."

But in the early 30's his name became linked with gambling and scandal. His career seemed doomed until a Paramount producer offered him a role in what became the Hopalong Cassidy series.

Floods Prove Double Jeopardy For Residents Of Cemetery

FORTY FORT, Pa. (AP) — Still missing: 1,200 bodies, more or less, from floodwrecked Forty Fort Cemetery.

"It's a tragedy," said Harry B. Schooley Jr., cemetery president.

But for still shocked residents who live near the Susquehanna River—many miles from the 195-year-old burial ground in northeastern Pennsylvania—it's a horror to find parts of bodies 12 weeks after the flooding caused by tropical storm Agnes.

The bodies were gouged out of their graves when the river swelled to record heights and tore through a 33-foot dike on June 23.

"The river came roaring over the steel piling, like ocean waves, and began to lift the grass and dirt, and knocked down the tombstones like matchsticks," recalled cemetery caretaker John Novak.

"It was frightful. I saw vaults and caskets popping out of the ground. Bodies tumbled out of broken boxes. Some looked like they were standing or walking on the water."

Schooley, a bank trust officer in nearby Wilkes-Barre, said "2,000 bodies at least, and maybe 2,500, were washed away and we have recovered only 1,005."

Mayor Ernst Bascomb said cleanup crews, hired by the Army Engineers, found bodies, caskets and gravestones everywhere, and used trucks, helicopters, cranes and even horses to gather them up.

Those cadavers and skeletons that have been found were reburied, at least temporarily, in the Memorial Shrine Cemetery in Carverton, eight miles north.

Only 30 were positively identified, Schooley said, because they were picked up intact in marked vaults or caskets.

About the missing 1,000, 1,200 or maybe 1,500 bodies?

"They're probably gone, God knows where," Schooley said.

The cemetery association, determined not to forget them, hopes to determine who was buried in the destroyed section, but it won't be easy.

Records in the tiny office 150 yards from the river here inundated, and now are being freeze-dried.

The 16-acre nonsectarian cemetery was begun in 1777 by the 44 settlers who built a fort near the river—giving the town its name.

The rampaging river washed out nearly five acres of graves, destroying some dating back to the early 1880s, and others buried in old family plots only a few years ago.

Meantime, Novak is busy restoring, righting and resinking tombstones that were knocked over.

"We have to get it back into shape," he said. "It will be a nice place for the dead again, and for the living to visit."

FUNNY BUSINESS — By Roger Bollen

Country Singer Danny Epps Gets Lucky Break

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — They come to Nashville every day, usually arriving in jalopies or by hitchhiking, and they honestly believe they'll bloom into music stars overnight.

More often than not, they leave town a few weeks later, having learned a hard lesson.

It takes loads of backbreaking work to make it big in Nashville's music industry. After that, more backbreaking work. and after that, well ... a lucky break never hurt.

Danny Epps has done the work. Now, he may have gotten the break.

Last spring, the handsome Texan signed his first big-time publishing contract. And recently, he put together his first album—a musical travelogue mostly of a highwayman's funny and sad ordeals with women.

"They're about women I've cared for, and I've cared for a lot of them," said the 31-yearold Epps, clad in a dungaree jacket, blue jeans and cowboy boots.

Take for example his song, "Trudie Mae." It's about a young kid whose first try at sex is with an over-mature teen-age girl whose father goes after them with a belt each time they're caught loving.

"Sure I've met a couple of Trudie Maes in my life," says Epps. The song goes on to say that Trudie marries and settles down to a family life.

"I was 16 when I met my first Trudie Mae," he said. "Her husband's probably a big hairy-legged guy who'd kill me now if he ever got his hands on me," he said, breaking out in a boyish grin.

Like many before him, Epps has had to look outside music to survive while doing his singing and songwriting, until last spring, that is.

Epps launched his career at the relative late age of 27 in Houston. He was born and reared in Lufkin, Tex., and is no stranger to hard times.

"I've worked a lot of jobs, just for beans. Anything to stay alive," he says. "I've passed the hat, washed dishes, dug ditches, put up a fence for Lynn Anderson ... You know, handyman work."

A lot of the odd jobs came after Epps rolled into Nashville—much like those guys in jalopies—two years ago. At the time, he didn't want to perform. He was content instead only to write in his country-folk bag.

"I'm the kind of writer who can't write unless I've done it, or at least done it mentally," he says. Blended with his experiences are vivid song images and moods—many of which a listener can easily identify with.

"When I'm writing a song, I want people to be able to see it in their mind. If they can life it and see it, man, you've done it all right there."

Putting it all "right there," though, hasn't been easy. "I think everybody who writes songs at first thinks they're good. But when I now look at my first songs, it's like looking at a piece of junk."

"I've had songs turned down by everybody in town. But if you get turned down once, you gotta go back with another song," he says confidently.

"I think a lot of people let the disappointment from teporary failure get to them, and then they get bitter."

Many of his best songs, Epps says, flow quickly from his mind.

"Sometimes I can write a song in 15 to 20 minutes. That's the kind that write themselves," he adds.

"Most of my songs, I can write in an hour or so and afterwards I'll go back to them to polish it up.

"They're the best kind because they're already there in your head and they just flow out."

Four years in the Marines, after a floppy year in college, did muchto harden Danny for the early disappointments that confronted him when he first came to Nashville. Through it all, his respect for himself never waned.

"Ninety per cent of all your songwriters come to this town, get broke and hungry and can't mooch from people. So they go back home.

"But if you've got enough confidence in yourself and stick it out..."

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Antilady Law

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Nellie couldn't have been a stauncher believer in the feminist cause had she had its credo tatooed across her chest. Consequently, when she applied for a driver's license and was told that she had to apply in her legal name, which according to state law meant using her spouse's surname, her sporano voice dropped octives. "Oh Yeah!" she rasped. "We'll see about that."

Whereupon, Nellie stomped off to court where she attacked the constitutionality of the state law in court.

"In the first place," she told the judge, "I'm me and not my husband. In the second place, no one has the right to strip me of my individuality. I'm a woman and as good as any man. Therefore, any antifeminist law that says I can't use my maiden name just ain't legal."

"It's not only legal." was the answer, "but necessary. If a person could use any name he chose, you'd need a Sherlock Holmes to figure out who's who. The problems of identification would be unbelieveable."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the antifeminist law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that all states recognize the common law rule, that when a woman marries, her husband's surname becomes her legal name. It is steeped in tradition and allows for uniformity among the states which is sufficiently important to overcome a claim of discrimination.

And, as applied to this case, continued the judge, requiring applicants to use their legal names when applying for driver's licenses enables a state to keep a closer watch over its licensees. Confusion is avoided and identification is made easier. However, noted the judge if a woman really wants to use her maiden name when applying for a license, she may do so where state law allows by merely going to court and obtaining the legal name of her choice.

THE PETER PRE- Peter. Morrow. 221 Pages.
SCRIPTION. By Laurence J. $5.95.

Remember "The Peter Principle"? It was a very popular book telling why things go wrong.

Its thesis was that every employe tends to rise to his level of incompetence. That is, he usually gets promoted one step beyond the jobs that he can handle. For example, he may be a very good engineer, but when he becomes a supervising engineer he bungles the supervision.

The present book is a sort of extension, or follow-up, of "The Peter Principle." On the premise that "Man cannot live by incompetence alone

Dear Editor:

While reading the New York Times recently, I was reminded of a story about a friar in a monastery. The friar asked his superiors for permission to smoke while praying. "No" came the answer in firm tones. Whereupon, the friar asked his superiors for permission to pray while smoking. This request was promptly granted.

In other words, the answer you receive often depends on how you phrase the question.

The issue of the New York Times that brought these thoughts to mind was dated Aug. 25, 1972. Front-paged was a story by Jack Rosenthal that began as follows:

"In a rapid shift on a politically tempestuous issue, the American public now appears to strongly favor full liberalization of laws that restrict abortions.

"According to a new Gallup Poll, 64 per cent of the public, and even a majority of Roman Catholics, now believe that the decision to have an abortion should be left solely to the woman and her doctor.

"As recently as 1968, survey data showed that less than 15 per cent of the public approved of liberalized abottion laws ..."

The Gallup Poll referred to by Mr. Rosenthal was taken during the month of June. It worded the abortion question in this manner: "As you may have heard, in the last few years a number of states have liberalized their abortion laws. Do you agree or disagree with the following statement regarding abortion: 'The decision to have an abortion should be made solely by a woman and her physician.' ".

Interestingly enough — and unmentioned in the Times article (because it might "confuse them" the public?) — Louis Harris has also been polling on abortion. On Aug. 7, 1972, Harris announced the following: "By 48-43 percent, a plurality of likely voters favors a national law legalizing abortion for women up to the fourth month of pregnancy. Although a top priority issue among the women's caucus at the recent Democratic Convention, women actually opposed legalizing abortion nationwide by 48-45 percent, while men favor them by 51-38 per cent."

By wording the question, "Do you favor or oppose allowing legalized abortions to take place up to four months of pregnancy?", the Harris poll arrived at a 48 per cent affirmative response, while Gallup, with a more favorable pro-abortion worded question, produced 64 per cent. Furthermore, far from discovering "a majority of Roman Catholics" in support of legalized abortion, Harris found 37 per cent of the Catholic community in favor and 54 percent opposed, a shift of 19 percentage points of the Callup Catholic findings. (Incidentally, I am not a Catholic.)

But hold onto your hats, for we are still only half finished! On July 17, 1972, Harris published another poll on 16 key issues on which President Nixon appeared to differ with Senator McGovern. Since the President had opposed unrestricted abortion while the Senator had expressed the belief that "it must be decided on an individual basis between a pregnant woman and her physician", Mr. Harris included in his poll the following question: "Now let me ask you whom you feel you would personally feel would agree more on the question of allowing legalized abortions, President Nixon or Senator McGovern?" With the question posed in this manner, 32 per cent of the American public declared their support for the Nixon position, 21 per cent backed the McGovern position and 47 per cent were unsure.

Twenty-one per cent favoring unrestricted abortion? Forty-eight per cent favoring restricted abortion? Sixty-four percent favoring unrestricted abortion? All from polls taken at the same time? A thought comes to mind. Suppose the abortion question were asked in yet a fourth way — a way that emphasized the reality of the unborn baby and the effect of abortion. "Do you favor the procedure by which an unborn baby is pulled apart by the insertion of a suction tube into the mother's body?" Asked the question in this manner, would 10% of the public respond in the affirmative? And, if the press were anti-abortion, would they highlight the result on the front page by announcing that "In a rapid shift on a politically tempestuous issue, the American public now appears to strongly oppose full liberalization of laws that restrict abortion"?

A pollster can do more than ask questions. Whether consciously or unconsciously, he can suggest the "right" answers. In the same way, the news media can do more than report news. Why did the Times highlight Gallup, while totally ignoring Harris? Why did at least five major television/radio stations in the New York area follow the same policy?

Is news only news when the media sympathize with the position involved? To what extent is the American public receiving all the news? To what extent is the news selected for us so that we receive only what someone judges it desirable for us to hear?

Sincerely,

POLLY'S POINTERS

Slacks Made Longer With Trim Bands

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Lorraine can lengthen her slacks that shrank by adding a colorful trim to the bottom of each leg. If necessary, more than one row could be added. Also cover the waist band or trim the pockets with the same trim so it looks planned rather than added. Be sure to wash the trim before sewing it on to prevent another shrinkage problem.—MARIANNE

DEAR GIRLS—A few inches could be cut off each leg and then a band of a contrasting color fabric, or even two colors, could be set in between the two pieces for a "made that way" look.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I remove the tarnish from my old solid brass bed frame with a brass cleaner. How do I keep the brass from tarnishing again after it is once nice and shiny? I have polished it several times but it always turns after a time. I would appreciate some help as I am really desperate.—MRS. M. K.

Dear POLLY—My Pet Peeve (if a mere man can be allowed to enter the sacred halls) is that I, and perhaps two million others, enjoy watching games on television but when the set is turned on at the appointed time, we are confronted with two ginks who pass the sacred rod back and forth, laugh at each others jokes, discuss the sex life of the grasshopper and J. Caesar's foreign policy. I am interested in watching the game and could not care less about the corny jokes and hogwash of the two incumbents. If you turn off this nauseating diatribe, the kick-off might be missed. Yours for the sport itself without the dialogue.—HENRY

Letter to The Editor:

The strike of the St. Louis Ironworkers is creating havoc in construction in all the Eastern half of Missouri.

The negotiators for the Ironworkers Union continue to demand a hiring hall provision in the contract.

Under a hiring hall the man who controls the list and assigns the jobs decides the total destiny of the workers. His favorites (don't forget the kickbacks) get the better jobs, nearer to home, more overtime etc.. Any worker who dares to complain about his assignment or in any way incurs the wrath of the hiring hall Czar is in for a rough time. Never again can a worker choose his place of employment. The only ones who gain any advantage under a hiring hall are the union bosses and a few of the less competent or lazy union members.

This is compulsory unionism at its worst. The contractors invite disaster for their best employees if they ever submit to this unjust demand.

Sincerely,
R. E. Miller

Farris At Murray

MURRAY, Ky. -- Southeast Missouri is well represented on this season's Murray State University Racers' football team with four former SeMo prep grid standouts holding down starting positions for coach Bill Furgeson.

Malden leads the contingent with two athletes, Don Clayton and Mark Norrid, making the Racers' lineup in the tough Ohio Valley Conference. They were teammates on the Green Wave unit that placed second in the 1969 AA state tournament. Clayton led the district in scoring, while Norrid was an all-state selection at guard.

The other SeMo stars on the Racer roster are Bruce Farris of Sikeston and Jerry Stanley of Hayti. Farris was a high school quarterback, while Stanley was a tackle for the Indians.

Here's what Murray's football booklet says about the former Southeast Missouri stars;

BRUCE FARRIS -- 6-2, 231- pound junior linebacker from Sikeston, Mo. Farris missed last season because of personal problems and spring practice because of a shoulder injury. He has lots of talent and size for his position and will be counted on heavily this fall if he can overcome his history of injuries.

Bruce Farris, Sikeston

Jerry Stanley, Hayti

Mark Norrid, Malden

JERRY STANLEY -- 6-3, 212- pound senior from Hayti, Mo. Stanley lettered the last two seasons at defensive end. He was moved to tackle in the spring and adapted to the position well. He has good height and speed and is aggressive and enthusiastic.

MARK NORRID -- 5-11, 210- pound junior from Malden, Mo. Norrid, who missed last season, is a fine blocker with good quickness. He played at offensive guard and tackle during spring practice and gave a good account of himself at both positions. A tough, hard knocker, he'll be a regular guard and a backup tackle this fall.

DON CLAYTON -- 6-2, 196- pound sophomore wide receiver from Malden, Mo. Clayton was injured as a freshman in his first few days of practice and has just now recovered sufficiently to return to football. He was an outstanding high school running back and scored 30 touchdowns as a senior. Barring further injury, he should be of great help to the team.

Lions Hear Cirrantano

Sikeston High School's new head football coach, Pete Cirrantano, is pulling double duty nowadays since his first public speaking engagement a month ago.

The personable, 25-year-old bachelor was guest of the Lions Club Wednesday at noon and is scheduled to expound Tuesday at a Kiwanis Club gathering as he nears the end of speaking engagements to local clubs.

Coach Cirrantano expressed his thanks Wednesday for the aid the Lions were giving the athletic program at SHS, and gave them a scouting report on the Bulldogs' Friday opponents, the Perryville Pirates.

He also praised the community for its backing of the team and complimented his troops by calling them "real football players."

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University plans to honor Olympic star Mark Spitz and other Olympic swimmers during homecoming weekend Oct. 13 and 14.

Babb Realizes Dreams

Charlie Babb, former Charleston High School all-conference quarterback and All-America safety at Memphis State University, padded his chances of winning a starting berth on the Miami Dolphins football team after his weekend performance on national television. The 6-foot-2, 195 pound athlete recovered two fumbles, returned punts and turned in some key tackles for the Dolphins in their final exhibition battle.

Babb was a fifth-round selection of Coach Don Shula. The four-sport letter from CHS had offers to play in the Canadian Football League but passed that up to realize a life-long dream of his ... to play in the NFL.

An injury to strong safety Dickie Anderson early in the exhibition season opened the door for Babb who otherwise was relegated to a backup defensive back slot when camp opened.

Babb's drive to athletic prominence is an incentive to any athlete who sets his goals early in life and strives toward them each day. The son of deaf parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jeweli Babb of rural Charleston, Charlie had few of the luxuries of life but was well provided for in a religious home.

The 22-year-old athlete is married to the former Leslie Ashby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roderic Ashby of Charleston.

Southeast Missouri lost one grid prospect early this week when the St. Louis Cardinals released former Dexter prep standout and Arkansas State University All-American Gary Crane, while another solidified his chances of winning a starting berth in his rookie season.

SPORT SHORTS By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The revived Texas Open will feature two former champions, Ron Cerrudo and Chi Chi Rodriguez, and 1969 U.S. Amateur champion Steve Melnyk, sponsors said Wednesday.

The tournament was canceled after 1970 because of unsuitable dates. It will be played Nov. 2-5 this year.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks Wednesday added 6-foot-7 forward Mickey Davis to their training camp roster.

Davis, the Bucks' seventh round draft choice, averaged 2.7 points in 23 games for the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association last season.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League Wednesday signed five-year National Football League veteran John Huard, who sat out most of the 1971 season with an ankle injury, to a multi-year contract.

The 28-year-old, 225-pound Huard will be middle linebacker this Sunday when the Alouettes host the British Columbia Lions, Coach Sam Etcheverry said.

Rookie of the year with Denver Broncos in 1967, Huard played there through 1970. Last year he was with the New Orleans Saints. He was cut Tuesday by the New England Patriots.

Bruins Again Underdogs

NEW YORK (AP) — Can UCLA, fresh from a stunning upset of top-rated Nebraska, avoid the snake-Pitt this weekend?

"You can say UCLA's beating Nebraska was a fluke, or whatever you want," says Pitt Coach Carl DePasqua, "but we don't consider it a fluke. They had the opportunities and they put points on the board."

Pitt, a loser to nationally ranked Florida State in its opener, stunned UCLA 29-25 in Los Angeles a year ago and DePasqua hopes he can surprise the Bruins again.

"UCLA is a highly disciplined, far better offensive team than last year," he points out. "They have better backs ... They're a very, very sound team and they execute wll offensively.

"We had the same opportunities against Florida State but we couldn't get in there. I feel like a guy going in the ring against Joe Frazier every weekend."

Thus informed, here is the upset special of the week—Pitt over UCLA.

Now that the laughter has subsided, please remember that our opening week mark was .765—including Southern Cal over Arkansas.

Penn State at Tennessee—This game originally was scheduled for Memphis on Dec. 9. Penn State realized some time ago that the December date would fall in the middle of final exams and suggested switching the game to Sept. 9 in Pennsylvania or Sept. 16 at night in Knoxville—not wanting to play in Knoxville's afternoon heat and knowing full well that Neyland Stadium didn't have lights. It has lights now. Tennessee.

Texas A&M at Nebraska—Bob Devaney thinks it may be tough to get the Cornhuskers back up after the loss to UCLA. "That's always a problem when you have a long streak and suffer a loss," he says. "But I feel they will come back and go on to have a good season. Texas A&M is a good football team, possibly as good as UCLA. They may even be better. I really mean that. They have more experienced backs than UCLA." The pick, therefore, is ... Nebraska.

Oregon State at Southern California—The Trojans are No. 1 and want to stay there, although there might be a letdown after that rout of Arkansas. Nevertheless ... Southern Cal.

Arizona State at Houston—"I think we'll be a little better this week," Houston's Bill Yeoman said after last week's 14-13 loss to Rice. They'd better be. Arizona State.

Utah State at Oklahoma—State's pass-happy Tony Adams against Oklahoma's fearsome ground game. Aggies will have it somewhat tougher than they did in last year's tour of Japan. Oklahoma.

Skins, Wiks, 49ers Division Favorites

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are the big question mark again in the National Football League's National Conference.

Will the Cowboys go all the way again this year—despite the loss of No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach?

Dallas will do quite well this year—probably making it to the playoffs as the No. 4 team from the NFC. But this pigskin prognosticator sees the Washington Redskins winning the East Division, with the Cowboys a close second.

Minnesota appears to be an easy winner in the Central Division but another tough race shapes up in the West between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

So, here is how the final NFC standings will look, in the fearless forecast from this corner:

East Division
Washington Redskins
Dallas Cowboys
St. Louis Cardinals
Philadelphia Eagles
New York Giants
Central Division
Minnesota Vikings
Detroit Lions
Green Bay Packers
Chicago Bears
West Division
San Francisco 49ers
Los Angeles Rams
Atlanta Falcons
New Orleans Saints

There are a lot of reasons why Dallas should win the NFC East. And there are several reasons why they won't. One of the big ones is George Allen and the Washington Redskins.

Sure, Craig Morton quarterbacked the Cowboys to the Super Bowl two seasons ago. Staubach did it last year. With last year. With Staubach not likely to see any action until the end of this season, that's one minus for the Cowboys.

The Cowboys lost running back Duane Thomas in a trade with San Diego, but they still have Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison. But that won't be quite enough.

The Dallas Doomsday Defense has been one of the best in the game, but this may be the year that age starts to catch up with such stalwarts as Bob Lily, Chuck Howley, Cornell Green and Herb Adderly.

With Sonny Jurgensen rejoining the Redskins, who also have Billy Kilmer at quarterback, Allen's crew will be tough. The Redskins' "Overthe-Hill Gang" could falter some, but not enough to keep Washington from winning its first division crown since 1945.

St. Louis may contend in the East but not strongly enough to win. The Cardinal offense could be potent with Jim Hart and Gary Cuozzo at quarterback, plus receivers Jackie Smith and Mel Gray and running backs Donny Anderson and Leon Burns. The St. Louis defense is suspect, however.

The Eagles and Giants will field teams this season. Not much else can be said for them.

Minnesota is the team that wll represent the NFC in the Super Bowl this year, according to this prognosticator. Fren Tarkenton returns to quarterback the Vikings, who already have such offensive stalwarts as Gene Washington, Jon Gilliam, Dave Osborn and Bill Brown.

And then there are the Purple People Eaters—Carl Eller, Alan Page, Jim Marshall, Gary Larsen and the rest of the defense.

The Detroit Lions can't be completely counted out, but defense—or the lack of it—will be the story of this team for 1972. Quarterbak Greg Landry can hold his own with anybody—but he doesn't play defense.

Green Bay will run the ball a lot with John Brockington and MacArthur Lane gaining considerable yardage. Scott Hunter is erratic at quarterback.

As for the Bears, now that Gale Sayers has retired, about the only thing that can be said for them is that they have a 40man roster, which will vary greatly during the season.

Lakers Run Into Big... Problems

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, who failed to show up for the Laker's opening practice, and teammate Happy Hairston, who left practice early, face possible fines for their actions, says general manager Pete Newell.

Chamberlain has indicated he might not play this season unless his contract is renegotiated. Hairston says he wants an extension on his current pact with the Laker's, last year's National Basketball Association champion.

Neither player was available for comment. However, friends of Chamberlain say the veteran is upset because owner Jack Kent Cooke has referred possible negotiations to Newell. Cooke has previously negotiated Chamberlain's contract personally.

The Lakers have said it is against club policy to renegotiate existing contracts.

Red Sox Build Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox took over first place last week and still find themselves in that euphorious position. How's that for longevity?

It's not bad considering the unstable condition of the American League East pennant race. Especially the unstable condition of second place in the East.

Since the Red Sox took over the No. 1 spot on Sept. 7, the other three contenders—Detroit Tigers, New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles—have all occupied the No. 2 spot.

They continued baseball's version of musical chairs Wednesday night while the Red Sox solidified their hold on first with a 7-2 victory over the Yankees. If you can call a onegame lead solid, that is.

"The biggest thing that this game did for us," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, "is that we left home in first place and we're going home in first place."

The Red Sox, who had a halfgame lead Tuesday, now hold a one-game advantage over the Tigers, who beat the Orioles 6-5 Wednesday night. The night's events left the Orioles and Yankees tied for third, 1½ games back.

"It's no different than it probably was a week ago," said Kasko. "As far as trying to pick someone, or say that someone's got an advantage, well, it's all right to speculate ... but you'd better not predict."

Ralph Houk, the Yankee manager, still fears the defending league—champion Orioles.

"I still think that Baltimore's the team to beat," said Houk. "It's hard to lose that thought in my mind."

The Oakland A's remained the team to beat in the West, beating the Minnesota Twins 80 to grab a three-game lead over Chicago. The White Sox lost 6-4 on a decision to the Kansas City Royals.

The Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 3-1 and the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5 in the other American League games.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 6, Chicago 4; New York 11, Philadelphia 6; Cincinnati 8, Atlanta 6; St. Louis 5, Montreal 4 in 11 innings; Houston 6, San Diego 5 and San Francisco 7, Los Angeles 1.

The Red Sox, held hitless through four innings by Rob Gardner, broke open the game with a four-run fifth inning that sent the Yankee left-hander to an early shower.

After the Yankees chased Boston starter Lynn McGlothen on Felipe Alou's two-run double in the seventh, the Red Sox came up with three more runs in the eighth off reliever Ron Klimkowski.

Detroit rallied for five runs off Dave McNally in the fifth inning, three on a homer by Frank Howard and one on a balk by reliever Doyle Alexander, to overcome a four-run deficit and beat Baltimore.

"This is the first time that Howard has really ripped the ball since he's been here," said Detroit Manager Billy Martin, whose team acquired the slugger in a recent deal with Texas. "He was like the others on this team—over-trying."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, looking at the pulsating pennant race, said "it doesn't look like anybody's got that much more talent than anyone else."

"But if we had two .300 hitters," he added, "we'd be eight games in front. For that matter, so would Detroit."

Oakland, getting six-hit pitching from John "Blue Moon" Odom, broke open a scoreless duel with five runs in the sixth inning to beat Minnesota.

Paul Schaal doubled home two runs in the eighth to power the Royals past the White Sox. Amos Otis opened the rally with a single and was sacrificed to second base. After Cookie Rojas bounced out for the second out, Carl Taylor drew a walk and set the stage for Schaal's double to left.

Joe Lahoud's 11th home run and Rick Auerbach's run-scoring triple powered Milwaukee over Cleveland. Leo Cardenas capped a two-run rally in the eighth inning with a run-scoring bunt, leading California past Texas.

A FLOCK of Canada geese with wings set glides in for a landing. Missouri's Canada goose season has been set by the Conservation Commission, along with the duck season. Quota in the Swan Lake Zone, where the bulk of Missouri Canada goose hunting takes place, is 14,000 this season.

Mackey Gets Wish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Mackey, voted the best tight end in pro football's first 50 years, now is up for grabs in the National Football League after being put on waivers by the Baltimore Colts.

The 30-year-old veteran had told the Colts he wanted to be traded or put on waivers if he would have to play behind Tom Mitchell, who was elevated to the starting tight end position last season.

The Colts announced Monday that Mackey had retired. He denied it and said he just wanted to go to another NFL team. So Coach Don McCafferty announced Wednesday that Mackey had been waived. If he is not claimed before 4 p.m., Friday he will become a free agent.

Elsewhere, Coach Don Shula said he would use a three running back rotation in the Miami Dolphins' season opener Sunday against Kansas City.

Shula said Mercury Morris, Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka are "all first stringers." Morris said after the Dolphins' 24-3 loss to Dallas in last year's Super Bowl that he wasn't getting enough playing time, and indicated he wanted to be traded unless his status changed. He has led the Miami rushing game in preseason action with a 6.9 yard per carry average.

Roster changes made by NFL teams Wednesday included the acqisition of running backs Charlie Pittman and Dave Kopay and wide receiver Jon Staggers by the Green Bay Packers. Staggers was claimed on waivers from Pittsburgh while Pittman and Kopay were free agents after having been released recently Baltimore and Oakland, respectively.

The New York Giants claimed running back Joe Orduna from San Francisco and placed running back Vin Clements on the taxi squad. Second-year quarterback Leo Hart was picked up by Los Angeles after being waived by Atlanta. Buffalo cut wide receiver Dennis Homan and New Orleans dropped linebacker Bob Grant.

Former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte was acquired by the Chicago Bears. The onetime Notre Dame quarterback signed with the New York Jets for $200,000 when he ended his college career in 1964. His last club was the Kansas City Chiefs, who recently released him.

The Atlanta Falcons announced that fullback Harmon Wages would be out for the entire season because of a knee injury.

St. Louis said it has re-acquired defensive end Don Brumm from Philadelphia. The 10-year veteran was the Cardinals' first draft choice in 1963 but signed with the Eagles as a free agent in 1970.

Quail Population Down In Southeast

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Quail prospects are excellent in Missouri this year with a production index equal to 1o69, the records harvest year.

The state Conservation Department announced the outlook today after the Conservation Commission set the season for Nov. 10 through Jan. 15, with a daily limit of 10 birds and possession limit of 20— same as last year.

Quail biologist Jack Stanford reported the statewide production index is 14, with 16 in east central Missouri the highest and 10 in Southeast Missouri the lowest.

"Statewide the outlook is favorable," Stanford said. "I'm cautious for this reason—there was drought in southwest Missouri and some torrential rains fell in southeast Missouri during July and August, which could mean that some areas will have lower quail populations even though the general outlook is very good.

"We had a very mild winter with a good carryover of birds."

A BANNER NIGHT

NEW YORK — At 7:30 PM baseball fans with banners were told to assemble outside the park to line up for the annual banner parade at Shea Stadium. Nobody expected the first game to last 18 innings, but the Mets won it from the Phillies 3-2 and thousands carrying 3,912 banners — after waiting two and one-half hours outside center field — were permitted back in to the park at 10:10 PM when the game ended. They had to wait 11 innings.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Pills Should Be Dated

Don't Keep Old Prescriptions

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know how long penicillin tablets are good. About four years ago I had an abscessed tooth and my dentist prescribed penicillin tablets to bring down the swelling. I had about six left over and put them in my medicine cabinet. Are they still good?

Dear Reader—Throw them away. Penicillin tablets are usually considered to be safe if stored properly only for about two years. Your letter points up a very important problem with medicine. The shelf life, or how long a medicine is effective, varies a great deal. Personally, I think every bottle of medicine that is given to a patient should have an expiration date or a statement effective only until, and then a specific date stamped on the label.

Don't underestimate the importance of this. The housewives in the nation raised cain because foods aren't dated and they have a valid point. I submit, however, that the medicines that are taken for illnesses are just as important as food. Usually a person's health, and how well he responds to treatment of an illness, depends on his taking medicine which has not deteriorated from age.

Doctors could probably help solve this problem by writing on their prescription pad, "please label with expiration date for usefulness." The reason doctors often don't do this is they expect their patients to take the medicine that has been prescribed for them. Thus the doctor prescribes just the amount of medicine he wants the patient to have and there should be none left over.

Doctors are trusting souls and we often think that our patients take the things we give them. The truth is, they often don't or they take the medicine they have been given for a few days and after they feel better they stop even though they haven't taken the full course of treatment. Not only can this be dangerous to the individual's health, but it provides a ready stock of unused medicine. Your situation is a good example.

This is one of the ways a lot of dangerous medicines are available for children or to be taken by mistake. Just remember, old medicine is often not good medicine. Throw away all medicine that your doctor has prescribed for you that you have not used.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Do you consider eating sunflower seeds harmful to your health? My granddaughter, who is in her teens, likes them so well she eats them by the pack.

Dear Reader—No, they're not harmful, provided she can afford that many calories. If they've been prepared by being roasted in oils, they'll have more grease and obviously contain more calories. The oil in raw sunflower seeds is very rich in polyunsaturated fats and contains very few saturated fats. To the extent that there is an advantage to eating the vegetable polyunsaturated fats as opposed to the animal saturated fats, they may even be beneficial.

Electronics Training Slated At Tri-County

MALDEN — An electronics training course will start Sept. 25 at Tri- County Trade and Technical School in Malden, it was announced today by C. E. Lemonds, director.

The course will run for 29 weeks (725 hours). The first 16 weeks (400 hours) will be directed primarily toward the basics and applications of electonics. The final 13 weeks (325 hours) will concentrate on telephone equipment repair and installation.

"Although the course is to be communications oriented, electronics training the students will obtain may be readily adapted to radio and television repair, industrial electonics, repair and analysis of computer logic circuitry or virtually any electonics career he may desire to pursue," Lemonds said. "However, should he desire to go into communications, good paying jobs are available locally in telephone equipment repair and installation."

Students will be taught theory of application of electonics and practical application on a complete telephone communications system using the proper test instruments and tools. Equipment comprising the telephone communications system, applicable test instruments and tools are being provided by a local communications company. The student will also be trained on various other types of test instruments and electronic devices.

Tri- County Trade and Technical School has been approved by the Veterans Administration. It is anticipated that not only veterans will participate, but anyone desiring training in the field of electonics.

Applications for enrollment are now being accepted in the director's office at Tri- County Trade and Tech School, Malden Industrial Park.

There will be free job placement assistance upon satisfactory completion of the course. The previous graduating class had 100 per cent placement for those desiring work.

Anyone desiring further information about the school may contact either: C. E. Lemonds, director, phone 314-276-2487; or after 5 p.m., Mac Callis, instructor, phone, 314-276-2915.

Kissinger Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is returning from Moscow with good prospects for signing of a broad U. S. - Soviet trade agreement within a month or less, administration sources say.

At the same time, the sources cautioned against a report from Moscow forecasting the pact would produce $4.9 billion worth of U. S. - Soviet trade by 1977. Kissinger is due back Friday after brief stops in London and Paris.

Political Tax Benefits Explained

ST. LOUIS—This year, for the first time, contributors to political campaigns may obtain income tax benefits in the form of either a credit against taxes owed or a deduction form taxable income. Would an eligible taxpayer be wiser to take the credit or the deduction?

It depends upon the amount contributed, whether the taxpayer is filing an individual or a joint return, and most of all, his tax rate, according to the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants.

The credit is allowed for one half of the amount contributed, up to a maximum of $12.50 ($25 on a joint return), a Missouri CPA spokesman explains, while a deduction can be taken for the full amount contributed, up to $50 ($100 on a joint return).

Persons in higher brackets gain greater benefits by taking the deduction, say the CPAs. For example, a person in the 60 per cent tax bracket filing a joint return who treats a $100 contribution as a deduction reduces his taxes by $60, whereas if he takes the credit his saving is only $25.

Who should take the credit instead of the deduction? Generally, say the CPAs, persons with a tax rate under 25 per cent, which includes most people whose taxable income on a joint return is less than $1,600.

If in doubt, the CPAs suggest that tax results be computed both ways to see which brings the greater benefit. If the taxpayer takes the standard deduction, he cannot claim the political contribution as a deduction, but he can take it as a credit.

The accounting society warns that not all political contributions are eligible for the tax credit or deduction. The contribution must be to a national political party, or to an announced candidate for national, state or local office (or to an organization set up to help elect him).

In the case of contributions to a candidate rather than a party, the money must be for use in the campaign. Contributions to political action groups having functions other than electing candidates are not eligible.

The CPAs recommend that receipts, cancelled checks and other evidence of political contributions be retained, since the Internal Revenue Service requires that the taxpayer must be able to document such gifts.

Insurance Company Wants Absolution

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An automobile insurance company has asked the St. Louis Circuit Court to absolve it of any claim for damage to a car which rammed into a hijacked jetliner at Lambert Airport and was destroyed on June 24.

The Auto Club Inter-Insurance Exchange, the insurance section of the American Automobile Association, said in its suit Wednesday that the policy on the car was effective only in accident situations.

The car was driven by David J. Hanley, a Florissant businessman who faces federal charges of attempting to destroy an airplane. Authorities said Hanley apparently drove his car into the jetliner as it was preparing to take off in an attempt to halt the hijacker.

The hijacker and the plane's crew switched to another plane and flew out of St. Louis, but Hanley was seriously injured.

PSC Adopts Federal Price Guideline Rules

JEFFERSON CITY — Rules have been issued by the Missouri Public Service Commission that require utilities to meet Federal Price Commission guidelines when submitting rate cases to the PSC.

The new rules, which are expected to be approved by the Federal Price Commission, would permit the Public Service Commission to determine whether rate increases are within limits established by the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970.

As a result, rate increases approved by the Public Service Commission no longer would have to be submitted by the utilities to the Federal Price Commission as is done now.

The rules issued by the PSC require the company seeking a rate increase to submit evidence, and the commission to find, that:

-- The increase is cost justified and does not reflect future inflationary expectations.

-- The increase is the minimum required to assure continued, adequate and safe service, or to provide for necessary expansion to meet future requirements.

-- The increase will achieve the minimum rate of return needed to attract capital at reasonable costs and not to impair the credit of the public utility.

-- The increase does not reflect labor costs in excess of those allowed by policies of the Federal Price Commission.

-- The increase takes into account expected and obtainable productivity gains.

Armed Forces

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Anthony Gerald Poole, 21, of Sikeston has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Missouri National Guard.

He is the son of Harold Thomas Poole, 603 South West St., and Hildred Anne Poole, 229 Harry, both of Sikeston.

Poole entered the Army National Guard in May 1970. His present duty is infantry platoon leader in the 128th Field Artillery Unit of Columbia.

He attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and is presently attending University of Missouri at Columbia where he will graduate next May with a degree in biology - pre-med. He formerly worked at Ferguson Medical Group in Sikeston as a physician's assistant.

Poole received the Outstanding Mortarman medal while stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C., in basic training. He is a member of the American Association of Medical Assistants.

School Night For Scouting Set

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- T. A. Brown, Jr. of Kennett, president of the Southeast Missouri Council of Boy Scouts, has announced the appointment of Mel Vogel of Cape Girardeau as council chairman for "School Night for Scouting".

"School Night for Scouting" is a program whereby any boy wanting to join either the Cub Scouts or Boy Scouts is asked to report to a given school in his area where local scout leaders explain the program to him and his parents. This year the Southeast Missouri Council will have a councilwide "School Night for Scouting" program on Thursday, Sept. 28.

According to Vogel, the mechanics of the program will involve running a boy fact survey in every grade school in Southeast Missouri. After the survey is tabulated, School Night fliers will be printed for all boys indicating an interest in joining. These fliers will be presented to the students prior to School Night, inviting them and their parents back to school Thursday evening. The School Night program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sep. 28 in over 100 schools in Southeast Missouri.

Local scout leaders will be at each school to explain what scouts do, where they meet, how to join and answer any questions the boys or parents might have concerning the program.

Vogel stated, "Through School Night for Scouting and the cooperation of all our scout leaderrs, I feel the scouting program will be made available to every boy between 8 and 12 years of age within the Southeast Missouri Council area."

Geronimo, fierce Apache leader, became a prosperous farmer in Oklahoma and became a national celebrity when he appeared at the St. Louis World's Fair and in Theodore Roosevelt's inaugural procession.

Getting China Invite Not Too Difficult

WASHINGTON (AP) — Getting an invitation for a business visit to the People's Republic of China looked immensely complex but turned out to be quite simple, says the key man in the $125-million sale of Boeing 707 jets to the Chinese.

After almost two years of mysterious hints of Chinese interest and requests for information from third parties in third countries, the Boeing Co. determined that there was a definite interest on the part of the Chinese in acquiring Boeing equipment.

Byron H. Miller, international sales director for Boeing's commercial airplane group, said he tried various ways, unsuccessfully, to obtain an invitation to China's trade fair at Canton.

Finally, Miller said, he wrote directly to the China National Machinery Import and Export Corp., the official government procurement agency, last March 7.

Three and one-half weeks latter he received a cable inviting him to the trade fair and then to Peking for discussions.

Miller said he took two engineers and two salesmen with him to China on his first visit in April. They briefed the Chinese on all Boeing airliners with emphasis on the relatively new 747, 727 and 737 versions.

After two weeks the team returned to Seattle. Miller west back to China with a six-man delegation and learned for the first time that the Chinese were seriously considering the 707, the earliest in the Boeing line, as thier first requirement.

"We were far apart on the basic approach to contractural matters, and also we had no export license," Miller said. "I returned home again but left one man there."

Miller said Boeing worked closely with the Department of Commerce to get an export license for the 707. "On July 18 I returned with a seven-man team. We completed the technical side in two weeks, then took six more weeks working out the contractural aspects," he said.

Of the negotiations, he said they were "protracted and detailed-by far the most rigorous and difficult negotiations I have ever been involved in.. The Chinese don't recognize that lawyers exist. We had 125 pages of detailed contract matters, and we went through that 10 times."

The sale of 10 intercontinental-range 707-320 airplanes will represent cash payment of $125 million in U.S. dollars as the planes are delivered, starting next summer and winding up in the spring of 1974.

Soviet Planes Buzz US

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Soviet aircraft carried out a 12hour reconnaissance mission Monday off the U.S. East Coast from bases in Cuba, the Pentagon reports.

A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday it was the first time the Russians had flown such a mission from Cuba and returned there, although such aircraft have been in Cuba before.

The Soviet aircraft were tracked by land-based radar and U.S. Navy jets from the aircraft carrier Forrestal. The Pentagon said they were about 50 miles off the U.S. mainland at their closest point.

In the past, Russian intelligence ships have been as close as four miles to the U.S. coast.

Martha Says Nothing Wrong With Her Mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martha Mitchell, saying there's nothing wrong with her mind, has denounced Republicans who are contending her husband's resignation from President Nixon's re-election campaign came because she suffered a nervous breakdown.

"I think it is rotten after all I have done for the Republican party for them to cast aspersions on me," the outspoken wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said in an interview published by the Evening Star and News today.

"I want to be sure my side is revealed and that people know I'm not sitting here a mental case or an alcoholic," she told the Star-News.

The newspaper said Mrs. Mitchell talked freely about her much-publicized ultimatum to her husband last June that he get out of politics or she would leave him but refused to discuss the alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Some highly placed Republicans have contended, the newspaper said, that Mitchell left his post as head of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President because Martha suffered a nervous breakdown.

Democrats, however, have sported "Free Martha" buttons and claimed she was silenced because she knows too much.

The Star-News said Mrs. Mitchell elaborated on her account of what occurred in a hotel room in Newport Beach, Calif., last June when her telephone conversation with a reporter was cut off just as she was about to answer a question on the alleged bugging incident.

She said in an article published Tuesday that Steve King, a former bodyguard who is now head of security for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, ripped the telephone from the wall to keep her from answering the question.

And she contended King, who took over as head of security when his boss, James W. McCord Jr., was arrested in connection with the alleged Democratic bugging, threw her to the floor, kicked her and held her down when she resisted the efforts of a doctor to give her an unwanted injection.

The Star-News said Mrs. Mitchell was thinner and paler than in her last public appearances in June. "I ought to be pale," she said, "I can't even go on my balcony."

Announce Record Funds For Forests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Tuesday 39 states and Puerto Rico have received a record $85 million as their share of fee collections in national forests last fiscal year.

The money represents onefourth of receipts totaling nearly $339 million for sale of timber and other products, and fees paid for national forest use such as livestock grazing and recreation.

Under the formula, 10 per cent of the gross is kept by the U.S. Forest Service for development of roads and trails. Then, after the 25-per cent payment to states where the forests are located, the remainder is turned over to the Treasury.

The 25-per cent distribution was for payments collected in the year ended last June 30. In 1970-71 the states received about $57 million, and the previous record was $72 million in 1969-70, officials said.

By law, county authorities must use the money on public schools and public roads.

Larger timber sales accounted for most of the increase last year, the department said.

By state, the distributions included:

Missouri $594,790; Nebraska $23,730; and Oklahoma $126,568.

Moscow Admits Drug Problems

MOSCOW (AP) — In a surprising admission of a growing drug problem, the Soviet Union has introduced tough new legislation for the compulsory treatment of narcotics addicts.

A decree distributed Wednesday by the Russian Republic's Supreme Soviet, or legislature, provides for detention of persistent drug-takers for up to two years in "curative-labor dispensaries."

The decree, in the legislature's latest official bulletin, referred to an unpublished government order on "curative-labor dispensaries." The reference suggested a network of special labor camps for drug addicts was being set up.

The controlled Soviet press rarely takes note of a drug problem and officials deny one exists. The press has, however, published several specific cases of drug use over the past year.

Smoking of marijuana bootlegged from the Caucasian and central Asian republics is relatively common among students and other young people. But the Soviet Union still has no "hard drug" problem of the dimensions reached in some Western countries, especially the United States.

One of the reasons is the Soviet Union's tightly sealed frontiers. There also are stiff penalties for smuggling drugs into the country and for illegal manufacture or supply of narcotics.

The new decree applies to all adults between the ages of 18 and retirement, and in special cases to young people over 16. Retirement age is 60 for men and 55 for women.

Alcohol, especially vodka, continues to be the major intoxicant for Russians.

A penetrating wood seal may be used to finish wooden salad bowls. But be sure to use a good quality seal so that it will hold up under the use of salt, vinegar and water.

Hitchhikers Take Motorist's Car

NEW MADRID — A 1972 Ford Mustang owned by Harvey G. Rollins of Baldwinville, N.Y., was stolen early Wednesday just south of New Madrid, according to the New Madrid County sheriff's office.

Rollins said Sunday afternoon in California he picked up a couple hitchhiking to New Jersey. Rollins and the pair traveled together and decided to go to New Orleans. They stopped along Interstate 55 late Tuesday night at a rest area near Marston and slept in sleeping bags.

The couple reportedly awoke at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday complaining of mosquitoes and went to the car to sleep. Rollins said he thought nothing of it and went back to sleep.

At 6 a.m. he awoke again, found the car gone, but again dismissed it, thinking the couple had gone for something to eat. He slept until 10 a.m. and did not report the theft until then.

The car contained $125 and credit cards.

Five Hurt In Three SeMo Accidents

Five persons received minor injuries in three traffic accidents on Southeast Missouri highways Wednesday, according to highway patrol.

Alvin Grossheider, 74, of Cape Girardeau and Alice Garner, 24, of Chaffee sustained minor injuries when their cars collided at 6:05 a.m. on Highway 25 one mile south of Gordonville. The accident occurred as Grossheider attempted to make a left turn into a private drive and was struck in the right side by the Garner car.

At 4:30 p.m. on a road one mile east of Aquilla in Stoddard County, a motorcycle driven by Johnny Geary, 16, of Dexter struck a pickup truck driven by Bill Harris, 45, of Bloomfield. Geary received bruises on his left leg and was treated at Dexter Memorial Hospital. The vehicles met on a curve and Geary sideswiped Harris.

On Highway 67 four miles north of Greenville at 7 p.m., a car driven by Daniel Pogue, 24, of Festus rounded a curve, struck a bridge railing and went down an embankment. Injured were Richard Buch, 27, of Wentzville and Lawrence Brothers, 24, of Manchester. Both were treated at Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Chicken Thief Strikes

PERKINS — A chicken thief has turned up in Scott County for the first time in nearly 15 years, according to Sheriff John Dennis.

Dennis said 29 chickens were stolen sometime late last week from a pen belonging to Tom Smith of Perkins. Smith had 40 chickens in the pen which were going to be frozen soon. The thief ran off with all but 11 of them.

Dennis seemed somewhat puzzled by the theft because neighbors did not report hearing any unusual noise during the probable time of the theft.

The sheriff said he will be investigating any chicken fries held in the county since the theft.

Bunker To Bunker

Fighting Rages At Quang Tri

SAIGON (AP) — South and North Vietnamese forces were locked in savage, bunker-tobunker combat at Quang Tri today, field reports said. It was the third straight day of heavy fighting there.

South Vietnamese marines have made no progress since Tuesday when a company of about 200 men fought their way into the southeastern corner of the 19th century Citadel.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen, reporting from the front, estimated the South Vietnamese held only about two acres of the 50-acre fortress.

Lt. Col. Do Viet, a spokesman for the Saigon command, said marine reinforcements got into the Citadel, but field reports said these were replacements for casualties. There were no indications the North Vietnamese were able to get reinforcements into the Citadel.

Officers told Jensen nearly 700 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in fighting in and around the Citadel during the past five days. The South Vietnamese were said to be losing about 25 men killed and 125 wounded each day.

The South Vietnamese had anticipated clearing out the Citadel by the weekend, but it now appears it will take much longer. Tropical storm Flossie is due in the Quang Tri area over the weekend, and is expected to curtail American air strikes.

Nearly 50 U.S. B52 bombers struck on both sides of the demilitarized zone in support of the South Vietnamese at Quang Tri.

The eight-jet Stratofortresses hit at North Vietnamese supply dumps and troop positions at points ranging from near the port of Dong Hoi to within one mile of Quang Tri, dropping more than 1,100 tons of explosives.

U.S. fighter-bombers pounded rail lines and supply depots between Hanoi and the Chinese border for the fourth successive day Wednesday, including one of the main distribution points for war materials moving south from China, the U.S. Command reported.

The command also announced the loss of a Navy A7 during more than 310 air strikes throughout North Vietnam Wednesday. The jet was hit by antiaircraft artillery fire 80 miles north of the DMZ. The pilot bailed out and was rescued.

It was the 94th American plane the Command has reported lost over the North since the resumption of full-scale bombing April 6.

U.S. Air Force pilots reported they destroyed or damaged half a dozen barracks and support buildings in the major raid of the day against the Hau Lan storage and barracks complex 40 miles north of Hanoi.

Earlier, the Cambodian command claimed that American planes knocked out 35 enemy tanks in the same region. The U.S. Command said it had no such report.

Early Beans Ready

Corn Harvest Begins

Harvesting of corn is under way in the Bootheel and early soybeans are ready for combining in Missouri.

Information received this week from the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Columbia indicates 40 per cent of the corn is mature, compared with 60 per cent a year ago. Harvest is two per cent complete, compared with five per cent last year.

Over 10 per cent of the corn in the Bootheel has been harvested.

Twenty-five per cent of the soybeans are turning color, substantially less than last year when 47 per cent were turning color. Eleven per cent of the crop is mature, with less than one per cent harvested.

Last year, two per cent of the beans were harvested by this time. Most of the harvest has been in the northeastern fourth of the state.

Grain sorghum is 34 per cent mature and lags way behind the 57 per cent mature this time last year. Well over three fourths of the sorghum is mature in the Bootheel, while barely five per cent has matured in the northeastern part of the state.

Twelve per cent of the cotton bolls are opening compared with 22 per cent a year earlier. Weather has been favorable and bolls are opening rapidly on sandy soils. There have been some reports of insect damage to cotton.

JAMES REYNOLDS of Steele and Franklin Babcock of Hayti check the oil level of a small spray rig as the Missouri Highway Department resurfaces three miles of the outer road along Interstate 55 two miles north of Hayti. The oil mixture is sprayed over gravel to make the resurfacing composition.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Opportunity knocks once -- temptation pounds on the door for years.

LIBERALS AND
THE ENEMY

Left-wing journalists have long argued that newspapers using the term "enemy" to describe Communist forces in Vietnam are being unfair. The Communists, they reason, are simply the other side. That 50,000 Americans have been killed by the enemy — oops — by "infiltrators," does not seem to matter.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR opts for euphemisms like "opposing forces." Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore and other big city papers ban "enemy" from headlines or editorials. THE NEW YORK TIMES, avoids the word. Many think it a plus that the TIMES has yet to describe U.S. troops as the enemy.

United Press International foreign editor Wilbur G. Land says that "we're reporting on what the two sides are doing and neither is the enemy of UPI." Can you imagine his reaction after Pearl Harbor? "In all conscience, we can't call the Japanese forces our enemies. After all, no bombs fell on UPI."

Some newspapers still use the word, though. Says one: "If troops are firing at Americans, we certainly can't consider them friendly. They're in the category of enemy."

The flap over "enemy" is only the latest example of liberal bias. They do not lie; they simply distort by deleting certain aspects of a story. Last year, for example, all we heard was that President Thieu was unpopular. Only occasionally did stories of his wide support, expecially among refugees from the North, leak out.

We read about farms mistakenly bombed and the GI drug problem. Both are true, but we seldom hear of calculated enemy atrocities, or the numerous voluntary GI orphanages. Deleting these items, the liberal media give us a distorted picture. No greater example exists than My Lai and Hue.

The American killing of some 120 people is the most followed-up story in the history of modern war journalism. The 1968 Communist massacre of 2000 people at Hue was little covered at the time, and now is virtually forgotten.

It is no wonder that the liberal media dislikes calling the Communists our enemy. To these opinion molders, the enemies of American troops are almost friends.

COMMON MARKET
REMEMBRANCE

Even as it prepares to enlarge its membership for the first time, the European Economic Community is pausing to commemorate a landmark in its development. On Tuesday, Sept. 19, the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the European Coal and Steel Community will be celebrated in Luxembourg. Fittingly enough, the speakers will include Jean Monnet, first president of the community's executive body and the leading architect of European unity.

The six Western Europe nations which later formed the Common Market signed a treaty setting up a Coal and Steel Community on April 18, 1951. It took effect the following year. Within the community, producer agreements to restrict competition were outlawed, and free movement of experienced coal and steel workers from country to country was safeguarded. Tariffs and quantitative restrictions on imports and exports of coal and steel within the community were eliminated over a five-year period.

The success of the coal and steel venture encouraged the community to widen its horizons. Under the Treaty of Rome, signed March 25, 1957, the Six established the European Atomic Energy Community and the European Economic Community, or Common Market. And now the Six shortly will become the Ten. Britain, Denmark, Ireland and Norway signed a treaty last Jan. 22 gaining entry in the Common Market, Coal and Steel Community, and Atomic Energy Community. The treaty is to take effect Jan. 1, 1973, subject to ratification by the four applicant nations. After two decades of experience, Western Europe has learned that in unity there is strength.

CUTTING COLLEGE
COSTS

As colleges open for the fall term, reports of their financial distress become more frequent and more urgent. About 300,000 places will go unfilled this year, with small, independent schools especially hard hit. With revenues from tuition down, and operating costs up, educators have been forced to re-examine traditional college programs and explore new and less extravagant possibilites.

In one such attempt, four U. S. colleges will experiment this fall with the British Open University program. Rutgers University plans to offer courses in the humanities, mathematics and science -- all to be pursued at home with the help of television, tapes, radio and printed instructions. Anyone may sign up and receive college credits upon completion. The University of Houston, the University of Maryland and San Diego State College also will try out variations of the program.

Proponents of the independent, accredited study underline its financial, as well as educational, advantages. They point out that at Britain's Open University, now starting its second year, only a small fraction of the total budget goes for salaries and fringe benefits -- the largest portion of a conventional university's outlay. "The question is how to educate more people, more effectively, but with less money," says Arland F. Chris - Janer, president of the College Entrance Examination Board of New York.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, in a report issued last June, suggested several ways to cut costs at conventional colleges without sacrificing quality. They included: (1) reducing the undergraduate course from four to three years; (2) abandoning expensive new PhD programs; (3) increasing faculty workloads; and (4) weeding out "reluctant students." That last task may not be too difficult now that the draft is being ended and increasing numbers of degree-holders are unemployed.

CALCULATE TO KEEP UP WITH JONESES

Forget about the electric carving knife or kitchen trash compactor. The latest status symbol the Joneses are buying like crazy is the miniature household electronic calculator. And after 330 years, it's about time.

It was in 1642 that French Scientist and philosphoer Blaise Pascal attempted to add with a machine. As late as 1969, it was impossible to find a good calculator for under $1,000.

Now, thanks to dramatic breakthroughs in microelectronics in recent years, machine costs have dropped to less than $200 and their size has shrunk accordingly. Some new models will fit in a shirt pocket.

Who needs an electronic calculator? Everybody, say the manufacturers. With only a basic knowledge of math and a calcualtor, you can, for example:

Compute the exact square footage needed to carpet a room; the precise amount to draperies required for a window, including pleats, or material for a dress; the exact amount of paint needed for a shed or house, or fertilizer for a lawn.

A calculator can also streamline budgets and cut costs in the buying of a great variety of household items.

For instance, which is the best buy in a supermarket - a four-pound "giant" box at 98 cents or a 38-ounce "large" size at two for $1.14? In the flicker of a digital display, the calculator knows that the giant box actually runs 24½ cents a pound, whereas the large size is only 24 cents.

Other uses: Calculating the most efficient way to make time payments, invest in stocks and bonds, gauge savings account and interest rates, keep checkbook balances error-free, tabulate income tax, help kids learn math, make on-the-spot computations of bowling or batting averages.

"We're confident," says Sam Carlson, president of North American Rockwell Microelectronics Company, "It (the miniature calculator) will have the same impact on the average person as the power saw did on carpenters and builders."

That's not just a lot of sawdust.

The United States spent a record $17.7 billion on welfare last year, an increase of nearly $3.3 billion over 1970, observes the National Association of Manufacturers. In 14 states and federal jurisdictions the number of people on the welfare rolls soared by 20 per cent or more. In 20 others the increase was between 10 and 20 per cent. Only in nine states did the rolls decrease.

Eligible millionaires who pride themselves on remaining bachelors.

Guys who can never take a drink from the office water cooler without asking, "When is the boss going to put free gin in it?"

Girls who act as if their lives were fading simply because their summer tan is.

The fellow at the next desk who wants already to tell you where he and his wife are going on their vacation next summer.

70s CRITICAL IN
REVAMPING CITIES

By the year 2000, it is predicted, something like 98 per cent of the population will live on one per cent of the land in the United States.

The phenomenon of this century is a reversal of what took place in the 19th century, when pioneers left the eastern cities to seek now opportunities on the free or cheap lands in the West. Today, growing numbers of the underprivileged are leaving rural communities and heading for the industrial centers, there to become either a dynamic force for progress or a cultural time bomb.

At the same time there is a countermovement. The middle classes are abandoning the urban centers in droves, mainly because the opportunities for decent housing and decent living are becoming increasingly limited.

We are reaching the point where the very wealthy and the very poor will inhabit our cities. If no remedy is found, the middle class will enter the cities only to work during daytime hours, returning to the suburbs at night and leaving the cities devoid of the human "input" so vital to their social and economic health.

Federal and local governments are trying to stem this outgoing tide as well as to accommodate the influx from the country, but the ability to solve the problem rests with the private sector to a much greater degree than is generally recognized. In fact, how successfully private interprise can enterprise contribute to the solution is one of the most important issues facing America in the Seventies.

Fortunately, there are numerous examples of what private enterprise, in co-operation with local government, can do. Pittsburgh's renovation of its Golden Triangle is probably the most famous. Others include the Golden Gateway in San Francisco, model cities programs in Gary, Ind., and Seattle and the revilalization of the St. Louis waterfront.

One of the most ambitious of all, however is "Illinois Center," now abuilding within walking distance of Chicago's famed business district, "The Loop." along the south bank of the Chicago River and overlooking Lake Michigan. What makes this project unique is that it will be located on 80 acres of air rights purchased from the Illinois Central Railroad, a subsidiary of IC Industries, one of three companies participating in the venture.

Illinois Center will have the ingredients to make it a self-sufficient community, from residential units to offices to stores and schools and parks. It will be larger than most Illinois cities, with a permanent population of between 35,000 and 50,000 and a daytime working population of about 80,000.

Not since the reconstruction period following the Great Fire of 1871 has any development of such magnitude been attempted in Chicago. It will cost an estimated $1 billion and take about 20 years to complete.

The nation's "Second City" is getting a new second city of its own , and in the doing may show other cities how they can get a second lease on life.

Our party senators voted down President Nixon's request for a minimum wage of $2.00 an hour. How will they vote when the Democrat sponsored bill for a minimum wage of $2.20 an hour comes up? Right here in Shelbina there are a lot of small businesses, including our own, which will have to reduce the number of people employed if the wage minimum jumps from $1.60 to $2.20. And why is it our Senators want to pay more? To get the support of Union Labor. We hope you read the Readers Digest editorial copied at the end of this column.

TROOPS IN EUROPE

It has been reported in the news media from various points of the globe that Red China would like for the U.S. to maintain strong ground forces in Western Europe. The sources of this information say Peking wants to deter Russia from moving her armies in Europe to the Sino -Soviet frontier. The reasoning sounds logical as far as the Chinese are concerned.

All of this may be well and good for the communist Chinese but we should not let them influence our policy. Whether our leaders officially recognize it or not, Chinese communists and the Soviet Union are still our great potential enemies. We should not accommodate either.

The general staff of our military establishment should determine our troop dispositions. If U.S. troop presence is necessary in Europe, then it should be maintained. This, of course, is a separate issue from foreign aid. The latter was conceived by liberal, one -world politicians as a do -good act and its announced motive was to thwart the advance of communism. This it has not done. Instead, it has simply drained off tax dollars from the citizens of this country.

Our present troop dispositions in Europe probably could not stop a determined Russian offensive to overrun our allies, but they could hinder them until such time as the formidable power of the U.S. could be brought to the fore. It should not be forgotten, also, that we have solemn treaty obligations to the people of Western Europe. We have no formal obligations to continue foreign aid. We had none to start with and the termination of this program would be a step forward. We should have ended it long ago. HLH

Inside Labor

Posh Mystery Man:
Hoffa's Park Ave. Operative
Has Entry To
Kissinger and Le Duc Tho.
Why? How?

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK —In a posh part of town, behind unlisted phones, there operates a mysterious international adventurer. His trail has led us and a couple of interested ''chaps'' to Argentina, Switzerland, this city's Park Avenue and right across the world from Southeast Asia to the Southwest United States -- and to James Riddle Hoffa.

Apparently this arcane operative, 60 -year -old William L. Taub, also has Hanoi connections. Especially Le Duc Tho, one of the most powerful members of the North Vietnamese Communist party politburo. Taub lives well, eats well and has little difficulty getting into the best circles.

On July 5, he and the Teamsters fourth vice president, big husky, graying Hal Gibbons lunched with none other than Dr. Henry Kissinger --and in San Clemente no less.

Now a flashback. Well over a year ago, the President's national security adviser --who knows more of Richard Nixon's international secrets that anyone but Richard Nixon --began talking about including Gibbons, who was Hoffa's house intellectual, in the contingent accompanying President to China. There were protests and Dr. Kissinger, whom some have accused of being too coy, too cute, too winging, too often, promised a friend that Gibbons would not go to Peking and that he would not be welcome in Dr. Kissinger's headquarters.

Then in March Gibbons suddenly turned up as one of three American labor men in Hanoi. There, it can be reported, he met with Le Duc Tho and officials of the so -called North Vietnamese Federation of Labor. The Americans were told Hoffa could come and when ''the time was ripe'' there would be a slow release of prisoners of war, and the former Teamsters chief now out on parole from a million -dollar Teamsters pension fund fraud conviction could have his share of POWs --and the glory.

Gibbons returned to work on the project --obviously aimed at obtaining a pardon for Hoffa and the eventual recapturing of the Teamsters from Frank Fitzsimmons.

Hoffa loved it. He wants the Teamsters presidency so badly he can taste it. The timetable is all set --Hoffa will be eligible for a full pardon three years after he was released from Lewisburg Penitentiary. That will be in December 1974. Then he plans to go back to his home Local 299 in Detroit. Then Gibbons is to step down from the presidency of the big Teamsters Central States Conference (regional organization) and Hoffa is to take over. And when the Teamsters convention is held July 1976, Hoffa will make a grand entrance and be swept into the general presidency.

All it would take would be a Presidential pardon which would restore Hoffa's full rights. Or the easing of Justice Dept. restrictions on his parole --namely, the right to be active inside his union. Already his Detroit probation officers just love that man. He's the ''greatest.'' They believe Hoffa has the right, even now, to mix in the labor movement. And apparently Maurice Sigler, chairman of the Federal Parole Board, is just as gung -ho about Hoffa. So Jimmy got permission to leave the country for 30 days.

It's a good bet that Sigler will not again give Hoffa so much admiration and freedom.

Somewhere along the line between March and July, the mystery man, now reported in New York, now Washington, now Paris, Bill Taub, enters the script. At the July 5 luncheon in San Clemente, he and Gibbons showed Dr. Kissinger -- whom the highest White House sources the other day, trying to be kind, called just plain silly --some papers purported to evidence that the Hanoi labor movement has invited Hoffa to come over and return with some POWs.

Dr. Kissinger was warm as the California sun. He beamed. He approved. And two weeks later in Paris he said as much to Le Duc Tho --who previously had attempted to use Gibbons and two other U.S. labor men to carry a face -to -face message personally to President Nixon and so position the American chief executive.

With Kissinger's permission in hand --and please note that Dr. Kissinger outranks even the Central Intelligence Agency --Gibbons and especially the mysterious Taub began operating.

Taub, who appears to have considerable income, telephoned Teamsters president Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons at the union's board meeting in Rancho La Costa, Calif. The caller said he wanted 20 minutes with Fitzsimmons -- who hasn't talked with Hoffa but six or seven times since Jimmy left prison some 10 months ago. Fitz said he wouldn't give Taub 20 seconds. And added that anything Hoffa does he does on his own.

Fitz of course knows that Hoffa has been bad -mouthing him. Then Taub went to the parole board and got permission for a trip to Hanoi by Hoffa, accompanied by himself and Gibbons. Then at the Justice Dept. he saw Ralph Erickson, Deputy Ass't. Attorney General in the Office of Legal Counsel. And Taub opined that Hoffa could come out with a big brace of war prisoners covering everybody with glory and certainly worth lifting parole restrictions.

President Nixon knew nothing of this. Neither did Secretary of State Rogers or his labor advisers. The operation was stopped.

There are, however, significant questions. Who is Taub? Where does he practice law? Who is his principal? How could he get to Le Duc Tho so easily?

And why did Dr. Kissinger, who carries so much of the world's fate, lunch with a man he really doesn't know, whom he did not check out, and who has so many mysterious adventures in his docket?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON —The Palestinian guerrillas have deliberately sought to provoke Israeli reprisals against Lebanon, in the opinion of U.S. Ambassador Bill Buffum in Beirut, in order to create "an illusion of activity" and to encourage "the continued flow of subsidies from the rest of the Arab world."

Their forces, never a serious threat to Israel, have been in disarray since King Hussein drove them out of Jordan in September, 1970. Now congregated largely in Lebanon, they draw lightning from Israel and keep the Middle East in ferment.

Ambassador Buffum sent the State Department a secret summary a few months ago of what's going on in the guerrilla camps in Lebanon. He reported that "fedayeen strength in South Lebanon, despite continual fluctuations, is now probably higher than at any time in the past" but that "their fighting spirit seems to have remained at low ebb."

He told of "the unedifying spectacle of confusion, dissension and bitterness that pervades the fedayeen leadership" and described "jealousy and disturbances developing between Fatah elements long stationed in South Lebanon and those recently arrived from Jordan and Syria." There have even been gunfights, he reported, between commandos.

"As if all this were not enough," the ambassador added, "the fedayeen have found their main outlet for releasing their frustrations -- forays into Israel --blocked almost entirely be security measures undertaken by the Lebanese and Israeli armies." -TIME —FUSED ROCKETS—

He reported that "virtually the only vestige of fedayeen activity aimed against Israel is the practice of launching time -fused rockets from behind Lebanese army OPs." But he suggested that "Lebanese army patrols are now able to find and defuse about 80 per cent of these rockets."

The U.S. embassy believes, cabled Buffum, "that current fedayeen activity in South Lebanon is designed to serve two purposes, neither of which has much to do with inflicting injury on Israel.

"The first seems to be to create an illusion of activity that will maintain the fedayeen 'mystique' and ensure the continued flow of subsidies from the rest of the Arab world.

"The second would appear to be to provoke Israeli retaliation against Lebanese border villages, in the hope of angering the inhabitants and exposing the Lebanese army to charges of 'do -nothingism' in the face of enemy assaults.

"Achievement of the first aim seems to have met with only limited success. While the resistance movement as a whole is certainly not on the verge of bankruptcy, there are indications that the payment of salaries and alowances to individual fedayeen is seriously in arrears . . .

"As far as the second aim is concerned, its realization seems to have eluded the fedayeen thus far. Bitterness against the Israelis and the GOL (Government of Lebanon), of course, is widespread in South Lebanon. But the populace has not been slow to realize the main cause of their present difficulties.

They are prone to blame the fedayeen for provoking Israeli retaliation on their crops and houses without even being able to claim the slightest damage to Israel itself."

-THOUSANDS WITH GUNS—

While Buffum discounted any serious fedayeen threat to Israel, he warned: "There still remains for the Lebanese the difficult problem of what, if anything, to do about the growing number of commandos --6,000 at last count and still rising --camped in South Lebanon ... who are supported by an amorphous mass of armed Palestinians in refugee camps throughout the country."

Lebanese authorities, he reported, "have not dared to set foot in any of the country's 15 refugee camps for the past two years."

The solution? Buffum observed that some militant Arab leaders believe "Lebanese leaders are only biding their time, hoping that future circumstances will permit them to deal with the Palestinian Resistance Movement in the same manner that King Hussein was able to deal with it.

"In our view, the Lebanese government intends nothing of the kind. Most of its leaders hope instead that something somehow will happen that will enable the problem to go away and remove the necessity of their having to cope with it."

What worries the ambassador is mounting fedayeen sentiment, "particularly among those elements that make up the Fatah 'opposition,' in favor of the concepts of area -wide terrorism and revolutionary activity long advocated by ... radical fedayeen leaders."

He cited intelligence reports that Algeria, Iraq, North Korea and South Yemen were providing "financial and meterial assistance directly to the PFLP (Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine) and other avowedly revolutionary organizations with nary a qualm about the adverse effects such assistance might have on this country's delicate political system."

Footnote: It was the PFLP that sent three Japanese terrorists into the Tel Aviv airport, where they gunned down 28 innocent passengers and wounded another 70 in a machinegun attack.

Five Released On Forgery Charge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Five persons indicted by a St. Louis Circuit Court grand jury in connection with the alleged forgery of names on the state's transportation bond issue petitions were released on $1,000 bond each late Wednesday.

The five, who surrendered to authorities after suppressed indictments had been returned, were identified as William C. Cuddihee of St. Ann, Mary E. Hayes of Spanish Lake, Lera Crady of Frontenac, C. Perry Crady Jr., of Imperial and Paul P. Latta of Florissant.

A sixth person named in the indictment had not yet surrendered.

The indictment charged the five with either false verification of an affidavit or acting with others in the forgery of an initiative petition.

4 War Opponents On Way To Hanoi To Pick Up Three American Fliers

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Four militant opponents of the Vietnam war were en route to Hanoi today to bring home three American fliers the Communists have promised to release. The wife of one POW and the mother of another accompanied them.

The group left New York Wednesday night. They were to stop briefly in the Danish capital and to arrive Friday in Hanoi for a two-week stay, according to the head of the delegation, Cora Weiss, cochairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam.

The POWs to be released are Navy Lt. Markham Gartley, 28; Navy Lt. Norris A. Charles, 27, and Air Force Maj. Edward Elias, 34.

Accompanying Mrs. Weiss were Gartley's mother, who is from Dunedin, Fla., and Charles's wife, from San Diego, Calif. Elias's father, who lives in Valdosta, Ga., said he could not make the trip.

The remaining members of the delegation are David Dellinger, the other cochairman of Mrs. Weiss' committee: Richard Falk, professor of international law and practice at Princeton University, and Yale University's chaplain, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin Jr.

Coffin said he had "no precise idea" why the North Vietnamese were going to release some Americans for the first time in three years.

"My guess," he said, "Is it would be a way of trying to tell the American people: 'We are prepared to release prisoners. It's three today and it's over 400 tomorrow.'"

Coffin urged that the U.S. government reciprocate with a temporary halt in the bombing of North Vietnam while the group is in the country.

Mrs. Gartley was carrying presents for six prisoners other than her son. Mrs. Charles, when asked what presents she was taking, said: "I'll be the greatest present for my husband - except for our daughter." Their 3-year-old Kersten is staying with relatives in Tampa, Fla.

End War Proposal Appears Certain To Die In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposal to cut off U.S. money for the Indochina war in four months appeared headed for certain defeat today in House action on a $74.6-billion defense bill.

Other amendments to the biggest military money bill since World War II included one to override the House Appropriations Committee and let the Army, Navy and Air Force turn over GIs' KP duty to civilians.

"This may be the last chance of this Congress to speak out and end the war," said Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., author of the end-the-war amendment, in the opening debate Wednesday. "The loss of one more life cannot be justified."

But Addabbo acknowledge off the floor that his amendment, identical to the one being pressed by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., had almost no chance of approval in the House.

It would cut off all money except the amount needed to withdraw U.S. forces from the Indochina war in four months if Hanoi released American prisoners and gave an accounting of missing GIs.

The House on Aug. 10 rejected an amendment setting an Oct. 1 troop-withdrawal deadline. The 228-178 vote showed that the House cannot muster the votes for a policy stand against the war, much less the votes to cut off money for the war.

In his opening statement, Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., described the bill as "the largest money bill that has ever been presented to any legislative body in the history of the world."

Defense bills in the House totaled $101 billion at the height of World War II but were split into separate War Department and Navy Department measures.

The $74.6 billion for the fiscal year starting last July 1 is $4.3 billion below President Nixon's request and $1.8 billion above last year's figure.

Sixteen Casualties Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported 16 American casualties in Vietnam last week, including one man killed in action, four dead from nonhostile causes, three missing or captured and eight wounded.

It was one of the lowest U.S. casualty counts since the North Vietnamese offensive began five and a half months ago.

However, reported South Vietnamese casualties were the highest in a month, and the Saigon command claimed the biggest enemy death toll since mid-June.

It reported 3,449 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed and 99 captured last week, while government losses were put at 638 men killed, 2,204 wounded and 97 missing.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,857 killed in action, 303,380 wounded, 10,269 dead from nonhostile causes, 1,785 missing.

South Vietnamese—154,963 killed, 405,450 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—886,065 killed.

Accidents Treated

Three accident patients were treated Wednesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Leslie Smith, 9, Sikeston, received second degree burns of right foot when stepped on burning object; Ruby Frazier, 64, Sikeston, bitten by a dog on right leg; David Howard, 21, New Madrid, sprained right leg jumping from a barge.

The Pedwin tie. Ancestry dates back to the traditional straight-tip oxford. But how time changed it! Up-front grew a broad, bump toe. The sole extended. The heel grew taller — to two inches or more. And now, striped laces tie it all together. Try a pair. Your time is now.

Success Is Relative

BY SHAREN K. MCNALLY, BENTON AREA HOME ECONOMIST

Work hard, listen to orders and you'll be a success. He worked hard for it and deserves it. Sound familiar??

This work ethic often pervades material success and precedes "justly deserved" success in many people's opinions.

But success is relative, individual and personal. It's your answer to the problems of making your minutes, hours, days and weeks, months and years add up to a good life. It is discovering your best talent, skills and abilities and applying them where they will make the most effective contribution to your fellowman.

How can one go about finding his "niche" in life? This question is felt most poignant in adolescence and teen -age years. Too old for child -like unawareness and too young to take a position alongside adults; impulsively independent and self assertive, what can pre -teens do?

At each stage in life, certain skills, understanding and attitudes are helpful for further development.

The teen -ager needs to achieve certain of these "developmental tasks":

1. Accept one's changing body and learning to handle oneself skillfully in variety of recreational, social and family situations. 2. Achieve a satisfying and socially accepted masculine or feminine role. 3. Fine oneself as a member of one's own generation in more mature relation with one's agemates. 4. Achieve emotional independence of parents and other adults --learn to be an adult among adults.

5. Select and prepare for occupation and economic independence --in line with individual abilities and goals. 6. Prepare for marriage, family life, or life of one's own. 7. Develop intellectual skills and social sensitivities necessary for civic competence -- a socially responsible person. 8. Develop a workable philosophy of life that makes sense in today's world. Find self in the universe and among one's fellowman in meaningful ways.

Call your county extension center for a leaflet on "Developmental Needs of Teen -agers".

Phyllis Lee Abernathy and Lyman Lindell Dame Jr. were married Sept. 8 at 4 p.m. in Tanner Street Church of God by the Rev. Vernon Guttenfelder.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross H. Abernathy of Rock Hill and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Abernathy of East Prairie.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Dame of Sikeston.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white satin and lace and carried a cascade of white roses.

Mrs. Jill Fetters, the bride's sister, was matron of honor, and Mark Noles was best man.

After the wedding, a reception was held in the church.

The new Mrs. Dame attends Sikeston High School. Dame is a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School and is a sophomore at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau.

They plan to live in Sikeston for one year, then move to Kansas City where Dame will attend dental college.

Maggots Save Woman's Life

GUELPH, Ont. (AP) — Maggots, a onetime medical remedy used to clean wounds, helped save the life of Denise Sprayson as she lay pinned in the wreckage of a car for five days, Dr. G.L. Stewart, area coroner, said today.

The maggots, swarming over the shattered face and limbs of the 37-year-old Maxwell, Ont., woman, prevented blood poisoning, Stewart said in an interview.

She was reported progressingly favorably in a hospital after being trapped under the rear wheel of an auto following a wreck that claimed the lives of her husband and two friends.

Mrs. Sprayson was found by a motorist who stopped to walk his dog. Inside were the bodies of her husband, Frank, 42, and George Albert Price, 40, of Princeville, Ont.

The body of Mrs. Gordon Willicombe, 37, of Hopesville, Ont., had been thrown clear of the car when it failed to make a curve and plunged down an embankment 26 feet from the road.

The barking of the excited dog attracted attention Sunday to the accident, the first indication of what had happened to the foursome since they were reported missing last Wednesday.

"We are quite pleased with her condition, though she's still in a somewhat shocked condition," said a hospital spokesman. "She is responding well to treatment."

Stewart said her wounds were "loaded" with maggots and her discomfort during her periods of consciousness must have been "beyond imagination."

Undoubtedly this helped save her life," he added.

Telephone Reassurance Program Planned

Plans are being made to start a Telephone Reassurance Program for senior citizens in the comminity.

Mrs. Kathleen Wissman, Heritage House director, Mrs. George Moorman, Mrs. Ed Aldridge and Mrs. Clay Matthews met Wednesday morning at Heritage House to make plans for the volunteer program which will regularly call elderly people or incapacitated persons who live alone to check on their well being.

If the person called does not answer at the appointed time, an emergency lifeline will go into immediate action, and as prearranged, a neighbor, nurse or policeman will make a house call. If a medical crisis is discovered, a doctor is called and relatives are notified.

Anyone wishing to volunteer for this program is asked to call Mrs. Wissman at 471—8059.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Parmenter

Parmenter-Lathum

Old fashioned baskets of mixed flowers formed the setting Sept. 3 for the wedding of Miss Sheila Lathum and Joel Parmenter in First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Otto Dvorak performed the double-ring ceremony before a gathering of relatives and close friends.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Maxine Lathum of Sikeston and Ezra Lathum of Matthews and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.L. Daugherty of Sikeston. Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Parmenter of Sikeston are parents of the groom.

Mrs. Elmer Childress, organist, played the traditional wedding march and accompanied Mrs. Dalton Shirey as she sang, "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Laddie Lathum, wore a gown fashioned like the one her grandmother wore 64 years ago on her wedding day. The gown was made of white polyester accented with inserts of lace re-embroidered with pearls. She wore a white picture hat and carried a bouquet of crescent design of daisies tied with white satin bows.

The bride chose as her only attendant, Miss Jana Moyers, who wore a pale blue dress similar to the bride's gown. She also wore a picture hat of blue and carried a bouquet of roses and rainbow asters.

Best man was Sam Parmenter, brother of the groom. Ushers were Gray Lathum, brother of the bride, and Lynn Colley. Assisting in registering the guests was Miss Julia Summers.

Immediately following the ceremony, members of the wedding party were guests at a dinner given by the parents of the bride and groom at Bloomfield Country Club.

A buffet table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional bride and groom with arrangements of daisies and tapers in shades of blue.

The new Mrs. Parmenter graduated from Sikeston High School and was employed as a legal secretary to Dwight Crader. Parmenter graduated in 1970 from Sikeston High School and is in the U.S. Air Force stationed in Tucson, Ariz., where they are making their home.

Ann Landers

Affection Can't Be Measured By Use Of Endearment Words

Dear Ann Landers: I think you were too hard on the young woman who begins letters to her in-laws with "Hi ....." instead of "Dear ....." and closes with "So long for now" instead of a more intimate sign off. Your notion that she did not feel warmly about her in-laws may have been incorrect.

Some people grow up without affection. They are not accustomed to words of endearment. It is very difficult for these people to express themselves in tender terms, even though the feeling is there. My own father referred to my mother as "Mrs. ..." when he spoke of her to others. She referred to him as "The Doctor." After reading your column for several years I would bet that your family was a close one--and affectionate. Am I right? --San Diego Reader

Dear San: Yes, you are right. In all the years I was growing up I never once heard my mother or father call one another by their given names. My father called my mother "Momma" --and she called him "Papa."

Many people have written to say I was too hard on the letter writer, and it may well be they are correct. Thank you for calling this to my attention and helping me see the situation in a more compassionate light.

Dear Ann Landers: May I add "Bravo!" to "Mad" who urged the reading public to get more facts about their education systems and how they operate. I do believe "Mad" made an error when he referred to unemployment compensation for teachers. A person can draw unemployment compensation only if his previous employer has contributed to the state funds which provide that compensation.

Most school systems and higher education institutions do not contribute for teachers. A teacher who is out of work is out of luck --and usually out of money. This is just one more sacrifice in benefits one must make if he chooses a career in education. Believe me, Ann, the rewards in teaching are NOT financial. The progress and growth of the promising young students are the only real satisfactions in the field of education. --A Teacher With No Regrets

Dear Teacher: In my opinion, education in America is in a bad way. Teachers are the most under-appreciated group of employees in this country. They guide the destinies of our nation's most valuable natural resource --its youth. Yet when budgets get tight they are lopped off like cordwood.

Every day I receive hundreds of letters from 10th, 11th, and 12th graders that look like ransom notes. We have a whole generation of kids in America who don't know how to read, can't spell and are not aware that every sentence should have a verb. This is what comes from overcrowded classrooms, teachers without certificates or degrees, and the permissive approach by incompetents who can't enforce discipline. I say there is a serious crisis in the field of education and we'd better get with it.

Dear Ann Landers: You told a girl who wrote to you about her boyfriend's sexy moustache and beard that it was a matter of taste, but that you didn't care for all that hair. My husband thinks you are great so he went and shaved off his beard. I loved his beard and I'm furious.

People write to you for counsel, not personal opinions. Stick to your work, Kiddo. --Billings

Dear Billie: Your husband should be interested in pleasing YOU, not me. Tell him to let it grow.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze And You -- For Teen-Agers only." Send 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this newspaper with your request.

Revived Bill Moves To House Floor Today

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A $21.5 million appropriations bill, revived Wednesday night behind closed doors after being tabled for a week, moved to the Missouri House floor today.

The bill still has far to go in the special legislative session called by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes. It has to be pefected by the House and have a third reading and then passage. Then it must go to the Senate Appropriations Committee and to the Senate, where it is expected to undergo futher changes. Final House action is expected Friday.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 25-8 after a Democratic caucus to reverse last week's 17-10 vote to table the bill.

The committee trimmed $2.4 million from Hearnes' $23.5 million request, but added $390,000 to speed consolidation of school districts and $150,000 for Northeast Missouri State College. The money for the Kirksville campus would go to offset a revenue decline caused by a decrease in out-of-state students.

The Democrats, Howard Garrett of Festus and Marvin Proffer of Jackson, joined six Republicans in voting against the bill. Of the 25 yes votes, five were cast by Republicans.

The House Majority Leader, Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, indicated the bill would be recommended to the floor with a provision for no amendments. If this were allwed, the bill would have to be rejected on the first vote before it could be amended.

There was a plea for unity among Democrats in the caucus.

"We made a serious attempt to bring before the body a bill they could go back home with and present to the people as genuine immediate needs," said the committee chairman, Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland.

The bill would next go to the Senate, which was to reconvene today shortly before noon. The House would be finished, leaving the Senate to consider the appropriations bill, a veto override, and the governor's appointments. The special legislative session began Sept. 6.

Another big cut was $398,000 from the Public Defender Program, which would set up 13 public defender offices. The governor had asked $1 million to fund the program, passed in the last general session.

Nearly all the budget requests were to fund bills enacted by the legislature. The $3.5 million measure for the University of Missouri, $550,000 in heating plant improvements for Lincoln University and $203,000 for Northwest Missouri State University were added by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes but were left intact by the committee.

The university had asked last winter for $535,600 to offset expected revenue declines caused by fewer non-resident students this school year at the Maryville campus.

The committee left $2.7 million in the University of Missouri request, including $1.3 million for libraries and equipment, $200,000 for the dental school, $300,000 for the Environmental Trace Substance Center and $125,000 for a biological science program at the Kansas City campus.

Other major items cut by the committee were $16,000 for the Department of Revenue, leaving $17,400 of a budget request to finance a speedup in account reporting, $10,900 for extra statistical reports supplied by the State Comptroller, $46,000 from a $136,000 request from the Division of Mental Health for licensing of nursing and boarding homes to care for the mentally retarded, and $54,000 for the Department of Corrections to allow inmates to leave prisons to visit doctors, ill relatives and to take classes.

The committee also cut about $150,000 from salary increases for clerks at the State Supreme Court and the four appeals courts. Committee members said the money could come from increased court costs.

Left intact by the committee were:

—$42,000 in salary increases for the 46 liquor control agents.

—$1.1 million for highway patrol salary increase.

—$309,500 for railroad crossing improvements.

—$59,000 to enable the Clean Water Commission to match a federal grant.

—$7.2 million to fund increased state payments for nursing home patients.

—$550,000 for air conditioning and heating plant work at Lincoln University.

—$1.2 million to increase state aid from $320 to $400 a year per student in junior colleges.

—$1 million for renovating the west side of the Capitol.

—And $2.6 million to implement a bill authorizing salary and retirement benefit boosts for magistrate and probate judges.

Democrats voting for the bill were William Friese of Ferguson, John Blassie of St. Louis, William Casey of Potosi, William Crigler of Fayette, Robert Devoy of Brookfield, Charles Dickey of Mexico, Donald Hancock of Doniphan, Tony Heckemeeyer of Sikeston, Clarence Helflin of Independence, Joe Holt of Fulton, Norbert Jasper of Washington, Herman Johnson of Kansas City, Frank Mickelson of Freeman, James Russell of Florissant, Tom Ryan of Kansas City, Earl Schlef of Dellwood;

David Ziegenhorn New Head Of Young Voters For President

The resuming of fall school activities has brought a slight realignment within the Scott County chapter of Young Voters for the President with the naming of David Ziegenhorn as the new chairman of the organization.

David will take over the primary coordinating efforts of promoting young adult support for the re-election of President Richard M. Nixon, similar to the work handled by Leslie Johnson through the summer months.

Leslie's return to college for the fall term does not mean an end to her campaign activities on behalf of the President. She will take an active role in campus efforts and also participate in Scott County projects when home for weekend visits to Sikeston.

David is a senior at Sikeston High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ziegenhorn of 505 Tanner St. He is a member of National Honor Society, Student Council, Drama Club and New Forensic League.

In addition to these activities, David was a delegate to Missouri Boys' State and is a member of the staff of the Bulldog Barker, the high school newspaper.

The post of chairman may be new to David, but the organization is not, for he has been active under the leadership of the prior chairman since the local chapter was established early this summer.

Hart's Inc. Sold

MEMPHIS — L. S. Hartzog, former owner of Hart's Bakery at 4871 Summer, has sold Hart's, Inc., Atlanta- based firm of which he is chairman and president, to Heublein, Inc. of Hartford, Conn. for 200,000 Heublein common shares valued at about 12 million dollars.

He formerly owned Hart's Bread of Sikeston.

Hartzog said he will continue to head the firm, which has plants in Atlanta, Dallas and Columbus, Ohio. Hart's, Inc. annual sales are about 10 million dollars, he said. The company, founded four and one- half years ago, makes yeast- raised biscuits for more than 2,100 Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in 49 states, including Alaska, Nassau, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Heublein, Inc. some time ago acquired Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp.

In 1966, Hartzog sold Hart's Bakery to Interstate Brands Corp. of Kansas City. Later he started a chain of Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in Memphis, Oklahoma City and Houston, but sold them to the then parent corporation.

Hartzog, who recently moved from Memphis to Atlanta, owns a chain of Hart's Steak Houses in Atlanta, Jacksonville, Fla., Pascagoula, Miss., and Mobile, Ala.

Washington Report by Senator Symington

WASHINTON, D.C.- Many of the more than 160 legislative measures that have been enacted thus far in the second session of the ninety-second Congress seek better solutions to some of our domestic problems.

SOCIAL SECURITY. Beginning Oct. 3, more than 700,000 Missourians will receive a 20 per cent increase in Social Secruity benefits under legislation enacted this past July.

The increase will mean an average monthly benefit of $270 for a retired couple over the $233 monthly benefit now being paid. The minimum monthly benefit will be raised from $70.40 to $84.50. The average retired individual worker's $133 benefit will be increased to $161. Average benefits to widows will rise from $114 to $137.

The Social Secruity program touches the lives of nearly every American. More than 27 million men, women and children -- one out of every eight Americans -- now receive monthly cash benefits.

UNEMPLOYMENT. Congress acted again to assist those who continue to be unemployed because of lact of work by extending for six months the time period during which unemployed individuals may receive emergency unemployment compensation.

EDUCATION. The Higher Education Act authorizes over $12 billion over a three year period for a variety of assistance programs to universities and colleges and estabishes a new National Institute of Education, modeled on the National Institutes of Health, to provide coordinated educational research and development in the field of education.

The measure provides financial assistance for both educational institutions and for students.

An innovative program of Basic Education Opportunity Grants provides a sliding scale of federal assistance for those students admitted to an accredited institution of higher education, based on need.

DRUGS. Development of a comprehensive,coordinated, long- term Federal strategy to encompass both effective law enforcement against illegal drug traffic and effective health programs to rehabilitate victims of drug abuse is the major objective of the Drug Abuse Office and Treatment Act.

The new law establishes a Special Action Office for Drug Abuse within the executive office of the President to plan and supervise federal efforts related to drug abuse, education, training, treatment, rehabilitaion and research.

ELDERLY. Inadequate income and lack of nutritional knowledge both contribute to the hunger and malnutrition problems of Americans. Since as many as 25 to 35 per cent of the aged live in poverty, they are particularly affected -- one of the reasons why Congress enacted a nutrition program as a part of the Older Americans Act.

Grants to states have been authorized for the purpose of paying up to ninety per cent of the cost of establishing and operating nutrition projects to provide low- cost, nutritionally sound meals to individuals 60 years of age or older.

The bill authorizes $250 million through fiscal year 1974 for this program.

YOUTH. This spring a bill was enacted to lower the minimum age requirement for federal jury service from 21 years to 18 years.

This law requires each judicial district with a prescribed plan for random selection of jurors to refill its master jury wheel with names obtained from the 1972 registration lists.

The 26th Amendment to the Constitution giving persons 18 years and older the right to vote was ratified July 1, 1971.

SICKLE CELL - ANEMIA. The National Sickle Cell Anemia Prevention Act authorizes $85 million over a three- year period to be distributed in the form of grants and contracts to public and nonprofit private agencies, organizations or institutions to assist in establishing or operating voluntary sickle cell anemia screening and counseling clinics. In addition, $30 million has been authorized to conduct research programs for improving the diagnosis, treatment and control of this disease.

The unfortunate victims of sickle cell anemia are primarily members of the black population. Among the symptoms are swelling of the joints, stunted growth, hemorraging, blindness, and stroke. Most patients fail to live beyond the age of 20 and only rarely do they live beyond age 40.

Much needs to be done to combat this disease which has been a fact of American life, at least since the first case was diagnosed 60 years ago.

BLACK LUNG. Pneumocniosis, the "black lung" disease has become all too well known as the disease of the coal miner.

Extension of the coal mine benefits to orphaned children and other dependents of victims and greater flexibility in standards for eligibility as provided in this session's Black Lung Benefit Act should help stem the rejection rate of black lung claims for benefits.

In Missouri, over 200 coal miner claims for federal compensation due to the occupational hazard of black lung have been approved since enactment of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969. Nevertheless, about half the claims filed in our state and throughout the country have been denied in the past three years because afflicted miners have not been able to meet stringent requirements for federal benefits.

James Madison became known as the "father of the Constitution" because of the role he played in establishing the U.S. Constitution. The World Almanac recalls that Madison took daily notes of the sessions of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and greatly aided in framing the document which incorporated many of his suggestions in its final draft.

Nixon -Shriver?!

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A slip of the tongue momentarily put Sargent Shriver in the Republican camp here.

At a reception Wednesday for South Texas political leaders, he said California labor union officials had told him not to worry about their votes.

"They said, 'We will carry California for Nixon and Shriver,'" he told the crowd, which immediately whooped and laughed.

Shriver quickly corrected his mistake.

Hopalong Cassidy Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm not the man people remember as Hopalong Cassidy," actor William Boyd often said in turning down interviews after bouts with cancer and Parkinson's disease. "They'd be shocked at the difference."

Boyd, who achieved international fame as the silverhaired Hoppy in 92 motion picture and television films, died Tuesday night, a few months after he entered a South Laguna Beach, Calif., hospital.

He was 77.

Complications from Parkinson's disease and congestive heart failure were reported as the immediate cause of death.

Funeral services, which were expected to be private, were being arranged.

Boyd, who became interested in children, preached the homely virtues to them.

"They way I figure it," he said, "if it weren't for the kids I'd be a bum today. They're the ones who've made my success possible. They're the ones that should benefit from it."

Boyd donated part of his fortune to children's hospitals and homes. He founded a club called Hoppy's Troopers that had an idealistic code of conduct.

High ethics were a part of the Hopalong Cassidy characterization, which ran for 25 years in movies and on television and radio.

Hopalong pursued bad guys relentlessly, but he tried to bring them back alive. If forced into a showdown, he let the villain draw first. Smoking, drinking, swearing or romantic involvement were taboo for Hoppy.

This insistence on clean living came rather suddenly for Boyd, and he credited his fifth wife, Grace, whom he married in 1937, with reforming him.

Boyd, the son of a poor farm laborer in Hendrysburg, Ohio, had come to California "to see how things were on the rich side."

Growing up in Hollywood turned out to be wild spending, gambling, four marriages and divorces. His good looks and brashness made him a romantic idol, star of such films as "The Volga Boatman," "King of Kings" and "Two Arabian Nights."

But in the early 30's his name became linked with gambling and scandal. His career seemed doomed until a Paramount producer offered him a role in what became the Hopalong Cassidy series.

Floods Prove Double Jeopardy For Residents Of Cemetery

FORTY FORT, Pa. (AP) — Still missing: 1,200 bodies, more or less, from floodwrecked Forty Fort Cemetery.

"It's a tragedy," said Harry B. Schooley Jr., cemetery president.

But for still shocked residents who live near the Susquehanna River—many miles from the 195-year-old burial ground in northeastern Pennsylvania—it's a horror to find parts of bodies 12 weeks after the flooding caused by tropical storm Agnes.

The bodies were gouged out of their graves when the river swelled to record heights and tore through a 33-foot dike on June 23.

"The river came roaring over the steel piling, like ocean waves, and began to lift the grass and dirt, and knocked down the tombstones like matchsticks," recalled cemetery caretaker John Novak.

"It was frightful. I saw vaults and caskets popping out of the ground. Bodies tumbled out of broken boxes. Some looked like they were standing or walking on the water."

Schooley, a bank trust officer in nearby Wilkes-Barre, said "2,000 bodies at least, and maybe 2,500, were washed away and we have recovered only 1,005."

Mayor Ernst Bascomb said cleanup crews, hired by the Army Engineers, found bodies, caskets and gravestones everywhere, and used trucks, helicopters, cranes and even horses to gather them up.

Those cadavers and skeletons that have been found were reburied, at least temporariiy, in the Memorial Shrine Cemetery in Carverton, eight miles north.

Only 30 were positively identified, Schooley said, because they were picked up intact in marked vaults or caskets.

About the missing 1,000, 1,200 or maybe 1,500 bodies?

"They're probably gone, God knows where," Schooley said.

The cemetery association, determined not to forget them, hopes to determine who was buried in the destroyed section, but it won't be easy.

Records in the tiny office 150 yards from the river here inundated, and now are being freeze-dried.

The 16-acre nonsectarian cemetery was begun in 1777 by the 44 settlers who built a fort near the river—giving the town its name.

The rampaging river washed out nearly five acres of graves, destroying some dating back to the early 1880s, and others buried in old family plots only a few years ago.

Meantime, Novak is busy restoring, righting and resinking tombstones that were knocked over.

"We have to get it back into shape," he said. "It will be a nice place for the dead again, and for the living to visit."

FUNNY BUSINESS — By Roger Bollen

Country Singer Danny Epps Gets Lucky Break

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — They come to Nashville every day, usually arriving in jalopies or by hitchhiking, and they honestly believe they'll bloom into music stars overnight.

More often than not, they leave town a few weeks later, having learned a hard lesson.

It takes loads of backbreaking work to make it big in Nashville's music industry. After that, more backbreaking work. and after that, well ... a lucky break never hurt.

Danny Epps has done the work. Now, he may have gotten the break.

Last spring, the handsome Texan signed his first big-time publishing contract. And recently, he put together his first album—a musical travelogue mostly of a highwayman's funny and sad ordeals with women.

"They're about women I've cared for, and I've cared for a lot of them," said the 31-yearold Epps, clad in a dungaree jacket, blue jeans and cowboy boots.

Take for example his song, "Trudie Mae." It's about a young kid whose first try at sex is with an over-mature teen-age girl whose father goes after them with a belt each time they're caught loving.

"Sure I've met a couple of Trudie Maes in my life," says Epps. The song goes on to say that Trudie marries and settles down to a family life.

"I was 16 when I met my first Trudie Mae," he said. "Her husband's probably a big hairy-legged guy who'd kill me now if he ever got his hands on me," he said, breaking out in a boyish grin.

Like many before him, Epps has had to look outside music to survive while doing his singing and songwriting, until last spring, that is.

Epps launched his career at the relative late age of 27 in Houston. He was born and reared in Lufkin, Tex., and is no stranger to hard times.

"I've worked a lot of jobs, just for beans. Anything to stay alive," he says. "I've passed the hat, washed dishes, dug ditches, put up a fence for Lynn Anderson ... You know, handyman work."

A lot of the odd jobs came after Epps rolled into Nashville—much like those guys in jalopies—two years ago. At the time, he didn't want to perform. He was content instead only to write in his country-folk bag.

"I'm the kind of writer who can't write unless I've done it, or at least done it mentally," he says. Blended with his experiences are vivid song images and moods—many of which a listener can easily identify with.

"When I'm writing a song, I want people to be able to see it in their mind. If they can life it and see it, man, you've done it all right there."

Putting it all "right there," though, hasn't been easy. "I think everybody who writes songs at first thinks they're good. But when I now look at my first songs, it's like looking at a piece of junk."

"I've had songs turned down by everybody in town. But if you get turned down once, you gotta go back with another song," he says confidently.

"I think a lot of people let the disappointment from teporary failure get to them, and then they get bitter."

Many of his best songs, Epps says, flow quickly from his mind.

"Sometimes I can write a song in 15 to 20 minutes. That's the kind that write themselves," he adds.

"Most of my songs, I can write in an hour or so and afterwards I'll go back to them to polish it up.

"They're the best kind because they're already there in your head and they just flow out."

Four years in the Marines, after a floppy year in college, did muchto harden Danny for the early disappointments that confronted him when he first came to Nashville. Through it all, his respect for himself never waned.

"Ninety per cent of all your songwriters come to this town, get broke and hungry and can't mooch from people. So they go back home.

"But if you've got enough confidence in yourself and stick it out..."

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Antilady Law

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Nellie couldn't have been a stauncher believer in the feminist cause had she had its credo tatooed across her chest. Consequently, when she applied for a driver's license and was told that she had to apply in her legal name, which according to state law meant using her spouse's surname, her sporano voice dropped octives. "Oh Yeah!" she rasped. "We'll see about that."

Whereupon, Nellie stomped off to court where she attacked the constitutionality of the state law in court.

"In the first place," she told the judge, "I'm me and not my husband. In the second place, no one has the right to strip me of my individuality. I'm a woman and as good as any man. Therefore, any antifeminist law that says I can't use my maiden name just ain't legal."

"It's not only legal." was the answer, "but necessary. If a person could use any name he chose, you'd need a Sherlock Holmes to figure out who's who. The problems of identification would be unbelieveable."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the antifeminist law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that all states recognize the common law rule, that when a woman marries, her husband's surname becomes her legal name. It is steeped in tradition and allows for uniformity among the states which is sufficiently important to overcome a claim of discrimination.

And, as applied to this case, continued the judge, requiring applicants to use their legal names when applying for driver's licenses enables a state to keep a closer watch over its licensees. Confusion is avoided and identification is made easier. However, noted the judge if a woman really wants to use her maiden name when applying for a license, she may do so where state law allows by merely going to court and obtaining the legal name of her choice.

Remember "The Peter Principle"? It was a very popular book telling why things go wrong.

Its thesis was that every employe tends to rise to his level of incompetence. That is, he usually gets promoted one step beyond the jobs that he can handle. For example, he may be a very good engineer, but when he becomes a supervising engineer he bungles the supervision.

The present book is a sort of extension, or follow-up, of "The Peter Principle." On the premise that "Man cannot live by incompetence alone

Dear Editor:

While reading the New York Times recently, I was reminded of a story about a friar in a monastery. The friar asked his superiors for permission to smoke while praying. "No" came the answer in firm tones. Whereupon, the friar asked his superiors for permission to pray while smoking. This request was promptly granted.

In other words, the answer you receive often depends on how you phrase the question.

The issue of the New York Times that brought these thoughts to mind was dated Aug. 25, 1972. Front- paged was a story by Jack Rosenthal that began as follows:

"In a rapid shift on a politically tempestuous issue, the American public now appears to strongly favor full liberalization of laws that restrict abortions.

"According to a new Gallup Poll, 64 per cent of the public, and even a majority of Roman Catholics, now believe that the decision to have an abortion should be left solely to the woman and her doctor.

"As recently as 1968, survey data showed that less than 15 per cent of the public approved of liberalized abottion laws..."

The Gallup Poll referred to by Mr. Rosenthal was taken during the month of June. It worded the abortion question in this manner: "As you may have heard, in the last few years a number of states have liberalized their abortion laws. Do you agree or disagree with the following statement regarding abortion: 'The decision to have an abortion should be made solely by a woman and her physician.' ".

Interestingly enough — and unmentioned in the Times article (because it might "confuse them" the public?) — Louis Harris has also been polling on abortion. On Aug. 7, 1972, Harris announced the following: "By 48-43 percent, a plurality of likely voters favors a national law legalizing abortion for women up to the fourth month of pregnancy. Although a top priority issue among the women's caucus at the recent Democratic Convention, women actually opposed legalizing abortion nationwide by 48-45 percent, while men favor them by 51-38 per cent."

By wording the question, "Do you favor or oppose allowing legalized abortions to take place up to four months of pregnancy?", the Harris poll arrived at a 48 per cent affirmative response, while Gallup, with a more favorable pro- abortion worded question, produced 64 per cent. Furthermore, far from discovering "a majority of Roman Catholics" in support of legalized abortion, Harris found 37 per cent of the Catholic community in favor and 54 percent opposed, a shift of 19 percentage points of the Callup Catholic findings. (Incidentally, I am not a Catholic.)

But hold onto your hats, for we are still only half finished! On July 17, 1972, Harris published another poll on 16 key issues on which President Nixon appeared to differ with Senator McGovern. Since the President had opposed unrestricted abortion while the Senator had expressed the belief that "it must be decided on an individual basis between a pregnant woman and her physician", Mr. Harris included in his poll the following question: "Now let me ask you whom you feel you would personally feel would agree more on the question of allowing legalized abortions, President Nixon or Senator McGovern?" With the question posed in this manner, 32 per cent of the American public declared their support for the Nixon position, 21 per cent backed the McGovern position and 47 per cent were unsure.

Twenty- one per cent favoring unrestricted abortion? Forty- eight per cent favoring restricted abortion? Sixty- four percent favoring unrestricted abortion? All from polls taken at the same time? A thought comes to mind. Suppose the abortion question were asked in yet a fourth way — a way that emphasized the reality of the unborn baby and the effect of abortion. "Do you favor the procedure by which an unborn baby is pulled apart by the insertion of a suction tube into the mother's body?" Asked the question in this manner, would 10% of the public respond in the affirmative? And, if the press were anti- abortion, would they highlight the result on the front page by announcing that "In a rapid shift on a politically tempestuous issue, the American public now appears to strongly oppose full liberalization of laws that restrict abortion"?

A pollster can do more than ask questions. Whether consciously or unconsciously, he can suggest the "right" answers. In the same way, the news media can do more than report news. Why did the Times highlight Gallup, while totally ignoring Harris? Why did at least five major television/ radio stations in the New York area follow the same policy?

Is news only news when the media sympathize with the position involved? To what extent is the American public receiving all the news? To what extent is the news selected for us so that we receive only what someone judges it desirable for us to hear?

POLLY'S POINTERS

Slacks Made Longer With Trim Bands

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Lorraine can lengthen her slacks that shrank by adding a colorful trim to the bottom of each leg. If necessary, more than one row could be added. Also cover the waist band or trim the pockets with the same trim so it looks planned rather than added. Be sure to wash the trim before sewing it on to prevent another shrinkage problem.—MARIANNE

DEAR GIRLS—A few inches could be cut off each leg and then a band of a contrasting color fabric, or even two colors, could be set in between the two pieces for a "made that way" look.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I remove the tarnish from my old solid brass bed frame with a brass cleaner. How do I keep the brass from tarnishing again after it is once nice and shiny? I have polished it several times but it always turns after a time. I would appreciate some help as I am really desperate.—MRS. M. K.

Dear POLLY—My Pet Peeve (if a mere man can be allowed to enter the sacred halls) is that I, and perhaps two million others, enjoy watching games on television but when the set is turned on at the appointed time, we are confronted with two ginks who pass the sacred rod back and forth, laugh at each others jokes, discuss the sex life of the grasshopper and J. Caesar's foreign policy. I am interested in watching the game and could not care less about the corny jokes and hogwash of the two incumbents. If you turn off this nauseating diatribe, the kick-off might be missed.
Yours for the sport itself without the dialogue.—HENRY

Letter to The Editor:

The strike of the St. Louis Ironworkers is creating havoc in construction in all the Eastern half of Missouri.

The negotiators for the Ironworkers Union continue to demand a hiring hall provision in the contract.

Under a hiring hall the man who controls the list and assigns the jobs decides the total destiny of the workers. His favorites (don't forget the kickbacks) get the better jobs, nearer to home, more overtime etc.. Any worker who dares to complain about his assignment or in any way incurs the wrath of the hiring hall Czar is in for a rough time. Never again can a worker choose his place of employment. The only ones who gain any advantage under a hiring hall are the union bosses and a few of the less competent or lazy union members.

This is compulsory unionism at its worst. The contractors invite disaster for their best employees if they ever submit to this unjust demand.

Sincerely,
R. E. Miller

Farris At Murray

MURRAY, Ky. -- Southeast Missouri is well represented on this season's Murray State University Racers' football team with four former SeMo prep grid standouts holding down starting positions for coach Bill Furgeson.

Malden leads the contingent with two athletes, Don Clayton and Mark Norrid, making the Racers' lineup in the tough Ohio Valley Conference. They were teammates on the Green Wave unit that placed second in the 1969 AA state tournament. Clayton led the district in scoring, while Norrid was an all-state selection at guard.

The other SeMo stars on the Racer roster are Bruce Farris of Sikeston and Jerry Stanley of Hayti. Farris was a high school quarterback, while Stanley was a tackle for the Indians.

Here's what Murray's football booklet says about the former Southeast Missouri stars;

BRUCE FARRIS -- 6-2, 231- pound junior linebacker from Sikeston, Mo. Farris missed last season because of personal problems and spring practice because of a shoulder injury. He has lots of talent and size for his position and will be counted on heavily this fall if he can overcome his history of injuries.

Mark Norrid
Malden

JERRY STANLEY -- 6-3, 212- pound senior from Hayti, Mo. Stanley lettered the last two seasons at defensive end. He was moved to tackle in the spring and adapted to the position well. He has good height and speed and is aggressive and enthusiastic.

MARK NORRID -- 5-11, 210- pound junior from Malden, Mo. Norrid, who missed last season, is a fine blocker with good quickness. He played at offensive guard and tackle during spring practice and gave a good account of himself at both positions. A tough, hard knocker, he'll be a regular guard and a backup tackle this fall.

DON CLAYTON -- 6-2, 196- pound sophomore wide receiver from Malden, Mo. Clayton was injured as a freshman in his first few days of practice and has just now recovered sufficiently to return to football. He was an outstanding high school running back and scored 30 touchdowns as a senior. Barring further injury, he should be of great help to the team.

Lions Hear Cirrantano

Sikeston High School's new head football coach, Pete Cirrantano, is pulling double duty nowadays since his first public speaking engagement a month ago.

The personable, 25-year-old bachelor was guest of the Lions Club Wednesday at noon and is scheduled to expound Tuesday at a Kiwanis Club gathering as he nears the end of speaking engagements to local clubs.

Coach Cirrantano expressed his thanks Wednesday for the aid the Lions were giving the athletic program at SHS, and gave them a scouting report on the Bulldogs' Friday opponents, the Perryville Pirates.

He also praised the community for its backing of the team and complimented his troops by calling them "real football players."

Babb Realizes Dreams

Sports

Charlie Babb, former Charleston High School all-conference quarterback and All-America safety at Memphis State University, padded his chances of winning a starting berth on the Miami Dolphins football team after his weekend performance on national television. The 6-foot-2, 195 pound athlete recovered two fumbles, returned punts and turned in some key tackles for the Dolphins in their final exhibition battle.

Babb was a fifth-round selection of Coach Don Shula. The four-sport letter from CHS had offers to play in the Canadian Football League but passed that up to realize a life-long dream of his ... to play in the NFL.

An injury to strong safety Dickie Anderson early in the exhibition season opened the door for Babb who otherwise was relegated to a backup defensive back slot when camp opened.

Babb's drive to athletic prominence is an incentive to any athlete who sets his goals early in life and strives toward them each day. The son of deaf parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jewell Babb of rural Charleston, Charlie had few of the luxuries of life but was well provided for in a religious home.

The 22-year-old athlete is married to the former Leslie Ashby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roderic Ashby of Charleston.

Southeast Missouri lost one grid prospect early this week when the St. Louis Cardinals released former Dexter prep standout and Arkansas State University All-American Gary Crane, while another solidified his chances of winning a starting berth in his rookie season.

SPORT SHORTS By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The revived Texas Open will feature two former champions, Ron Cerrudo and Chi Chi Rodriguez, and 1969 U.S. Amateur champion Steve Melnyk, sponsors said Wednesday.

The tournament was canceled after 1970 because of unsuitable dates. It will be played Nov. 2-5 this year.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks Wednesday added 6-foot-7 forward Mickey Davis to their training camp roster.

Davis, the Bucks' seventh round draft choice, averaged 2.7 points in 23 games for the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association last season.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League Wednesday signed five-year National Football League veteran John Huard, who sat out most of the 1971 season with an ankle injury, to a multi-year contract.

The 28-year-old, 225-pound Huard will be middle linebacker this Sunday when the Alouettes host the British Columbia Lions, Coach Sam Etcheverry said.

Rookie of the year with Denver Broncos in 1967, Huard played there through 1970. Last year he was with the New Orleans Saints. He was cut Tuesday by the New England Patriots.

Bruins Again Underdogs

NEW YORK (AP) — Can UCLA, fresh from a stunning upset of top-rated Nebraska, avoid the snake-Pitt this weekend?

"You can say UCLA's beating Nebraska was a fluke, or whatever you want," says Pitt Coach Carl DePasqua, "but we don't consider it a fluke. They had the opportunities and they put points on the board."

Pitt, a loser to nationally ranked Florida State in its opener, stunned UCLA 29-25 in Los Angeles a year ago and DePasqua hopes he can surprise the Bruins again.

"UCLA is a highly disciplined, far better offensive team than last year," he points out. "They have better backs ... They're a very, very sound team and they execute wll offensively.

"We had the same opportunities against Florida State but we couldn't get in there. I feel like a guy going in the ring against Joe Frazier every weekend."

Thus informed, here is the upset special of the week—Pitt over UCLA.

Now that the laughter has subsided, please remember that our opening week mark was .765—including Southern Cal over Arkansas.

Penn State at Tennessee—This game originally was scheduled for Memphis on Dec. 9. Penn State realized some time ago that the December date would fall in the middle of final exams and suggested switching the game to Sept. 9 in Pennsylvania or Sept. 16 at night in Knoxville—not wanting to play in Knoxville's afternoon heat and knowing full well that Neyland Stadium didn't have lights. It has lights now.

Tennessee.

Texas A&M at Nebraska—Bob Devaney thinks it may be tough to get the Cornhuskers back up after the loss to UCLA. "That's always a problem when you have a long streak and suffer a loss," he says. "But I feel they will come back and go on to have a good season. Texas A&M is a good football team, possibly as good as UCLA. They may even be better. I really mean that. They have more experienced backs than UCLA." The pick, therefore, is ... Nebraska.

Oregon State at Southern California—The Trojans are No. 1 and want to stay there, although there might be a letdown after that rout of Arkansas. Nevertheless ... Southern Cal.

Arizona State at Houston—"I think we'll be a little better this week," Houston's Bill Yeoman said after last week's 14-13 loss to Rice. They'd better be. Arizona State.

Utah State at Oklahoma—State's pass-happy Tony Adams against Oklahoma's fearsome ground game. Aggies will have it somewhat tougher than they did in last year's tour of Japan. Oklahoma.

Skins, Wiks, 49ers Division Favorites

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are the big question mark again in the National Football League's National Conference.

Will the Cowboys go all the way again this year—despite the loss of No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach?

Dallas will do quite well this year—probably making it to the playoffs as the No. 4 team from the NFC. But this pigskin prognosticator sees the Washington Redskins winning the East Division, with the Cowboys a close second.

Minnesota appears to be an easy winner in the Central Division but another tough race shapes up in the West between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

So, here is how the final NFC standings will look, in the fearless forecast from this corner:

East Division
Washington Redskins
Dallas Cowboys
St. Louis Cardinals
Philadelphia Eagles
New York Giants
Central Division
Minnesota Vikings
Detroit Lions
Green Bay Packers
Chicago Bears
West Division
San Francisco 49ers
Los Angeles Rams
Atlanta Falcons
New Orleans Saints

There are a lot of reasons why Dallas should win the NFC East. And there are several reasons why they won't. One of the big ones is George Allen and the Washington Redskins.

Sure, Craig Morton quarterbacked the Cowboys to the Super Bowl two seasons ago. Staubach did it last year. With last year. With Staubach not likely to see any action until the end of this season, that's one minus for the Cowboys.

The Cowboys lost running back Duane Thomas in a trade with San Diego, but they still have Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison. But that won't be quite enough.

The Dallas Doomsday Defense has been one of the best in the game, but this may be the year that age starts to catch up with such stalwarts as Bob Lily, Chuck Howley, Cornell Green and Herb Adderly.

With Sonny Jurgensen rejoining the Redskins, who also have Billy Kilmer at quarterback, Allen's crew will be tough. The Redskins' "Overthe-Hill Gang" could falter some, but not enough to keep Washington from winning its first division crown since 1945.

St. Louis may contend in the East but not strongly enough to win. The Cardinal offense could be potent with Jim Hart and Gary Cuozzo at quarterback, plus receivers Jackie Smith and Mel Gray and running backs Donny Anderson and Leon Burns. The St. Louis defense is suspect, however.

The Eagles and Giants will field teams this season. Not much else can be said for them.

Minnesota is the team that wll represent the NFC in the Super Bowl this year, according to this prognosticator. Fren Tarkenton returns to quarterback the Vikings, who already have such offensive stalwarts as Gene Washington, Jon Gilliam, Dave Osborn and Bill Brown.

And then there are the Purple People Eaters—Carl Eller, Alan Page, Jim Marshall, Gary Larsen and the rest of the defense.

The Detroit Lions can't be completely counted out, but defense—or the lack of it—will be the story of this team for 1972. Quarterbak Greg Landry can hold his own with anybody—but he doesn't play defense.

Green Bay will run the ball a lot with John Brockington and MacArthur Lane gaining considerable yardage. Scott Hunter is erratic at quarterback.

As for the Bears, now that Gale Sayers has retired, about the only thing that can be said for them is that they have a 40man roster, which will vary greatly during the season.

Lakers Run Into Big. . . Problems

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, who failed to show up for the Laker's opening practice, and teammate Happy Hairston, who left practice early, face possible fines for their actions, says general manager Pete Newell.

Chamberlain has indicated he might not play this season unless his contract is renegotiated. Hairston says he wants an extension on his current pact with the Laker's, last year's National Basketball Association champion.

Neither player was available for comment. However, friends of Chamberlain say the veteran is upset because owner Jack Kent Cooke has referred possible negotiations to Newell. Cooke has previously negotiated Chamberlain's contract personally.

The Lakers have said it is against club policy to renegotiate existing contracts.

Red Sox Build Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox took over first place last week and still find themselves in that euphorious position. How's that for longevity?

It's not bad considering the unstable condition of the American League East pennant race. Especially the unstable condition of second place in the East.

Since the Red Sox took over the No. 1 spot on Sept. 7, the other three contenders—Detroit Tigers, New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles—have all occupied the No. 2 spot.

They continued baseball's version of musical chairs Wednesday night while the Red Sox solidified their hold on first with a 7-2 victory over the Yankees. If you can call a onegame lead solid, that is.

"The biggest thing that this game did for us," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, "is that we left home in first place and we're going home in first place."

The Red Sox, who had a halfgame lead Tuesday, now hold a one-game advantage over the Tigers, who beat the Orioles 6-5 Wednesday night. The night's events left the Orioles and Yankees tied for third, 1½ games back.

"It's no different than it probably was a week ago," said Kasko. "As far as trying to pick someone, or say that someone's got an advantage, well, it's all right to speculate ... but you'd better not predict."

Ralph Houk, the Yankee manager, still fears the defending league—champion Orioles.

"I still think that Baltimore's the team to beat," said Houk. "It's hard to lose that thought in my mind."

The Oakland A's remained the team to beat in the West, beating the Minnesota Twins 80 to grab a three-game lead over Chicago. The White Sox lost 6-4 on a decision to the Kansas City Royals.

The Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 3-1 and the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5 in the other American League games.

National League scores: Pittsburgh 6, Chicago 4; New York 11, Philadelphia 6; Cincinnati 8, Atlanta 6; St. Louis 5, Montreal 4 in 11 innings; Houston 6, San Diego 5 and San Francisco 7, Los Angeles 1.

The Red Sox, held hitless through four innings by Rob Gardner, broke open the game with a four-run fifth inning that sent the Yankee left-hander to an early shower.

After the Yankees chased Boston starter Lynn McGlothen on Felipe Alou's two-run double in the seventh, the Red Sox came up with three more runs in the eighth off reliever Ron Klimkowski.

Detroit rallied for five runs off Dave McNally in the fifth inning, three on a homer by Frank Howard and one on a balk by reliever Doyle Alexander, to overcome a four-run deficit and beat Baltimore.

"This is the first time that Howard has really ripped the ball since he's been here," said Detroit Manager Billy Martin, whose team acquired the slugger in a recent deal with Texas. "He was like the others on this team—over-trying."

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, looking at the pulsating pennant race, said "it doesn't look like anybody's got that much more talent than anyone else."

"But if we had two .300 hitters," he added, "we'd be eight games in front. For that matter, so would Detroit."

Oakland, getting six-hit pitching from John "Blue Moon" Odom, broke open a scoreless duel with five runs in the sixth inning to beat Minnesota.

Paul Schaal doubled home two runs in the eighth to power the Royals past the White Sox. Amos Otis opened the rally with a single and was sacrificed to second base. After Cookie Rojas bounced out for the second out, Carl Taylor drew a walk and set the stage for Schaal's double to left.

Joe Lahoud's 11th home run and Rick Auerbach's run-scoring triple powered Milwaukee over Cleveland. Leo Cardenas capped a two-run rally in the eighth inning with a run-scoring bunt, leading California past Texas.

A FLOCK of Canada geese with wings set glides in for a landing. Missouri's Canada goose season has been set by the Conservation Commission, along with the duck season. Quota in the Swan Lake Zone, where the bulk of Missouri Canada goose hunting takes place, is 14,000 this season.

Mackey Gets Wish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Mackey, voted the best tight end in pro football's first 50 years, now is up for grabs in the National Football League after being put on waivers by the Baltimore Colts.

The 30-year-old veteran had told the Colts he wanted to be traded or put on waivers if he would have to play behind Tom Mitchell, who was elevated to the starting tight end position last season.

The Colts announced Monday that Mackey had retired. He denied it and said he just wanted to go to another NFL team. So Coach Don McCafferty announced Wednesday that Mackey had been waived. If he is not claimed before 4 p.m., Friday he will become a free agent.

Elsewhere, Coach Don Shula said he would use a three running back rotation in the Miami Dolphins' season opener Sunday against Kansas City.

Shula said Mercury Morris, Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka are "all first stringers." Morris said after the Dolphins' 24-3 loss to Dallas in last year's Super Bowl that he wasn't getting enough playing time, and indicated he wanted to be traded unless his status changed. He has led the Miami rushing game in preseason action with a 6.9 yard per carry average.

Roster changes made by NFL teams Wednesday included the acqisition of running backs Charlie Pittman and Dave Kopay and wide receiver Jon Staggers by the Green Bay Packers. Staggers was claimed on waivers from Pittsburgh while Pittman and Kopay were free agents after having been released recently Baltimore and Oakland, respectively.

The New York Giants claimed running back Joe Orduna from San Francisco and placed running back Vin Clements on the taxi squad. Second-year quarterback Leo Hart was picked up by Los Angeles after being waived by Atlanta. Buffalo cut wide receiver Dennis Homan and New Orleans dropped linebacker Bob Grant.

Former Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte was acquired by the Chicago Bears. The onetime Notre Dame quarterback signed with the New York Jets for $200,000 when he ended his college career in 1964. His last club was the Kansas City Chiefs, who recently released him.

The Atlanta Falcons announced that fullback Harmon Wages would be out for the entire season because of a knee injury.

St. Louis said it has re-acquired defensive end Don Brumm from Philadelphia. The 10-year veteran was the Cardinals' first draft choice in 1963 but signed with the Eagles as a free agent in 1970.

Quail Population Down In Southeast

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Quail prospects are excellent in Missouri this year with a production index equal to 1o69, the records harvest year.

The state Conservation Department announced the outlook today after the Conservation Commission set the season for Nov. 10 through Jan. 15, with a daily limit of 10 birds and possession limit of 20— same as last year.

Quail biologist Jack Stanford reported the statewide production index is 14, with 16 in east central Missouri the highest and 10 in Southeast Missouri the lowest.

"Statewide the outlook is favorable," Stanford said. "I'm cautious for this reason—there was drought in southwest Missouri and some torrential rains fell in southeast Missouri during July and August, which could mean that some areas will have lower quail populations even though the general outlook is very good.

"We had a very mild winter with a good carryover of birds."

A BANNER NIGHT

NEW YORK — At 7:30 PM baseball fans with banners were told to assemble outside the park to line up for the annual banner parade at Shea Stadium. Nobody expected the first game to last 18 innings, but the Mets won it from the Phillies 3-2 and thousands carrying 3,912 banners — after waiting two and one-half hours outside center field — were permitted back in to the park at 10:10 PM when the game ended. They had to wait 11 innings.

Don't Keep Old Prescriptions

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know how long penicillin tablets are good. About four years ago I had an abscessed tooth and my dentist prescribed penicillin tablets to bring down the swelling. I had about six left over and put them in my medicine cabinet. Are they still good?

Dear Reader—Throw them away. Penicillin tablets are usually considered to be safe if stored properly only for about two years. Your letter points up a very important problem with medicine. The shelf life, or how long a medicine is effective, varies a great deal. Personally, I think every bottle of medicine that is given to a patient should have an expiration date or a statement effective only until, and then a specific date stamped on the label.

Don't underestimate the importance of this. The housewives in the nation raised cain because foods aren't dated and they have a valid point. I submit, however, that the medicines that are taken for illnesses are just as important as food. Usually a person's health, and how well he responds to treatment of an illness, depends on his taking medicine which has not deteriorated from age.

Doctors could probably help solve this problem by writing on their prescription pad, "please label with expiration date for usefulness." The reason doctors often don't do this is they expect their patients to take the medicine that has been prescribed for them. Thus the doctor prescribes just the amount of medicine he wants the patient to have and there should be none left over.

Doctors are trusting souls and we often think that our patients take the things we give them. The truth is, they often don't or they take the medicine they have been given for a few days and after they feel better they stop even though they haven't taken the full course of treatment. Not only can this be dangerous to the individual's health, but it provides a ready stock of unused medicine. Your situation is a good example.

This is one of the ways a lot of dangerous medicines are available for children or to be taken by mistake. Just remember, old medicine is often not good medicine. Throw away all medicine that your doctor has prescribed for you that you have not used.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Do you consider eating sunflower seeds harmful to your health? My granddaughter, who is in her teens, likes them so well she eats them by the pack.

Dear Reader—No, they're not harmful, provided she can afford that many calories. If they've been prepared by being roasted in oils, they'll have more grease and obviously contain more calories. The oil in raw sunflower seeds is very rich in polyunsaturated fats and contains very few saturated fats. To the extent that there is an advantage to eating the vegetable polyunsaturated fats as opposed to the animal saturated fats, they may even be beneficial.

Electronics Training Slated At Tri-County

MALDEN — An electronics training course will start Sept. 25 at Tri- County Trade and Technical School in Malden, it was announced today by C. E. Lemonds, director.

The course will run for 29 weeks (725 hours). The first 16 weeks (400 hours) will be directed primarily toward the basics and applications of electonics. The final 13 weeks (325 hours) will concentrate on telephone equipment repair and installation.

"Although the course is to be communications oriented, electronics training the students will obtain may be readily adapted to radio and television repair, industrial electonics, repair and analysis of computer logic circuitry or virtually any electonics career he may desire to pursue," Lemonds said. "However, should he desire to go into communications, good paying jobs are available locally in telephone equipment repair and installation."

Students will be taught theory of application of electonics and practical application on a complete telephone communications system using the proper test instruments and tools. Equipment comprising the telephone communications system, applicable test instruments and tools are being provided by a local communications company. The student will also be trained on various other types of test instruments and electronic devices.

Tri- County Trade and Technical School has been approved by the Veterans Administration. It is anticipated that not only veterans will participate, but anyone desiring training in the field of electonics.

Applications for enrollment are now being accepted in the director's office at Tri- County Trade and Tech School, Malden Industrial Park.

There will be free job placement assistance upon satisfactory completion of the course. The previous graduating class had 100 per cent placement for those desiring work.

Anyone desiring further information about the school may contact either: C. E. Lemonds, director, phone 314-276-2487; or after 5 p.m., Mac Callis, instructor, phone, 314-276-2915.

Kissinger Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is returning from Moscow with good prospects for signing of a broad U. S. - Soviet trade agreement within a month or less, administration sources say.

At the same time, the sources cautioned against a report from Moscow forecasting the pact would produce $4.9 billion worth of U. S. - Soviet trade by 1977. Kissinger is due back Friday after brief stops in London and Paris.

Political Tax Benefits Explained

ST. LOUIS—This year, for the first time, contributors to political campaigns may obtain income tax benefits in the form of either a credit against taxes owed or a deduction form taxable income. Would an eligible taxpayer be wiser to take the credit or the deduction?

It depends upon the amount contributed, whether the taxpayer is filing an individual or a joint return, and most of all, his tax rate, according to the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants.

The credit is allowed for one half of the amount contributed, up to a maximum of $12.50 ($25 on a joint return), a Missouri CPA spokesman explains, while a deduction can be taken for the full amount contributed, up to $50 ($100 on a joint return).

Persons in higher brackets gain greater benefits by taking the deduction, say the CPAs. For example, a person in the 60 per cent tax bracket filing a joint return who treats a $100 contribution as a deduction reduces his taxes by $60, whereas if he takes the credit his saving is only $25.

Who should take the credit instead of the deduction? Generally, say the CPAs, persons with a tax rate under 25 per cent, which includes most people whose taxable income on a joint return is less than $1,600.

If in doubt, the CPAs suggest that tax results be computed both ways to see which brings the greater benefit. If the taxpayer takes the standard deduction, he cannot claim the political contribution as a deduction, but he can take it as a credit.

The accounting society warns that not all political contributions are eligible for the tax credit or deduction. The contribution must be to a national political party, or to an announced candidate for national, state or local office (or to an organization set up to help elect him).

In the case of contributions to a candidate rather than a party, the money must be for use in the campaign. Contributions to political action groups having functions other than electing candidates are not eligible.

The CPAs recommend that receipts, cancelled checks and other evidence of political contributions be retained, since the Internal Revenue Service requires that the taxpayer must be able to document such gifts.

Insurance Company Wants Absolution

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An automobile insurance company has asked the St. Louis Circuit Court to absolve it of any claim for damage to a car which rammed into a hijacked jetliner at Lambert Airport and was destroyed on June 24.

The Auto Club Inter-Insurance Exchange, the insurance section of the American Automobile Association, said in its suit Wednesday that the policy on the car was effective only in accident situations.

The car was driven by David J. Hanley, a Florissant businessman who faces federal charges of attempting to destroy an airplane. Authorities said Hanley apparently drove his car into the jetliner as it was preparing to take off in an attempt to halt the hijacker.

The hijacker and the plane's crew switched to another plane and flew out of St. Louis, but Hanley was seriously injured.

PSC Adopts Federal Price Guideline Rules

JEFFERSON CITY — Rules have been issued by the Missouri Public Service Commission that require utilities to meet Federal Price Commission guidelines when submitting rate cases to the PSC.

The new rules, which are expected to be approved by the Federal Price Commission, would permit the Public Service Commission to determine whether rate increases are within limits established by the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970.

As a result, rate increases approved by the Public Service Commission no longer would have to be submitted by the utilities to the Federal Price Commission as is done now.

The rules issued by the PSC require the company seeking a rate increase to submit evidence, and the commission to find, that:

-- The increase is cost justified and does not reflect future inflationary expectations.

-- The increase is the minimum required to assure continued, adequate and safe service, or to provide for necessary expansion to meet future requirements.

-- The increase will achieve the minimum rate of return needed to attract capital at reasonable costs and not to impair the credit of the public utility.

-- The increase does not reflect labor costs in excess of those allowed by policies of the Federal Price Commission.

-- The increase takes into account expected and obtainable productivity gains.

Armed Forces

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Anthony Gerald Poole, 21, of Sikeston has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Missouri National Guard.

He is the son of Harold Thomas Poole, 603 South West St., and Hildred Anne Poole, 229 Harry, both of Sikeston.

Poole entered the Army National Guard in May 1970. His present duty is infantry platoon leader in the 128th Field Artillery Unit of Columbia.

He attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and is presently attending University of Missouri at Columbia where he will graduate next May with a degree in biology - pre-med. He formerly worked at Ferguson Medical Group in Sikeston as a physician's assistant.

Poole received the Outstanding Mortarman medal while stationed at Fort Jackson, S.C., in basic training. He is a member of the American Association of Medical Assistants.

Getting China Invite Not Too Difficult

WASHINGTON (AP) — Getting an invitation for a business visit to the People's Republic of China looked immensely complex but turned out to be quite simple, says the key man in the $125-million sale of Boeing 707 jets to the Chinese.

After almost two years of mysterious hints of Chinese interest and requests for information from third parties in third countries, the Boeing Co. determined that there was a definite interest on the part of the Chinese in acquiring Boeing equipment.

Byron H. Miller, international sales director for Boeing's commercial airplane group, said he tried various ways, unsuccessfully, to obtain an invitation to China's trade fair at Canton.

Finally, Miller said, he wrote directly to the China National Machinery Import and Export Corp., the official government procurement agency, last March 7.

Three and one-half weeks latter he received a cable inviting him to the trade fair and then to Peking for discussions.

Miller said he took two engineers and two salesmen with him to China on his first visit in April. They briefed the Chinese on all Boeing airliners with emphasis on the relatively new 747, 727 and 737 versions.

After two weeks the team returned to Seattle. Miller west back to China with a six-man delegation and learned for the first time that the Chinese were seriously considering the 707, the earliest in the Boeing line, as thier first requirement.

"We were far apart on the basic approach to contractural matters, and also we had no export license," Miller said. "I returned home again but left one man there."

Miller said Boeing worked closely with the Department of Commerce to get an export license for the 707. "On July 18 I returned with a seven-man team. We completed the technical side in two weeks, then took six more weeks working out the contractural aspects," he said.

Of the negotiations, he said they were "protracted and detailed by far the most rigorous and difficult negotiations I have ever been involved in.. The Chinese don't recognize that lawyers exist. We had 125 pages of detailed contract matters, and we went through that 10 times."

The sale of 10 intercontinental-range 707-320 airplanes will represent cash payment of $125 million in U.S. dollars as the planes are delivered, starting next summer and winding up in the spring of 1974.

School Night For Scouting Set

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- T. A. Brown, Jr. of Kennett, president of the Southeast Missouri Council of Boy Scouts, has announced the appointment of Mel Vogel of Cape Girardeau as council chairman for "School Night for Scouting".

"School Night for Scouting" is a program whereby any boy wanting to join either the Cub Scouts or Boy Scouts is asked to report to a given school in his area where local scout leaders explain the program to him and his parents. This year the Southeast Missouri Council will have a councilwide "School Night for Scouting" program on Thursday, Sept. 28.

According to Vogel, the mechanics of the program will involve running a boy fact survey in every grade school in Southeast Missouri. After the survey is tabulated, School Night fliers will be printed for all boys indicating an interest in joining. These fliers will be presented to the students prior to School Night, inviting them and their parents back to school Thursday evening. The School Night program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sep. 28 in over 100 schools in Southeast Missouri.

Local scout leaders will be at each school to explain what scouts do, where they meet, how to join and answer any questions the boys or parents might have concerning the program.

Vogel stated, "Through School Night for Scouting and the cooperation of all our scout leaderrs, I feel the scouting program will be made available to every boy between 8 and 12 years of age within the Southeast Missouri Council area."

Geronimo, fierce Apache leader, became a prosperous farmer in Oklahoma and became a national celebrity when he appeared at the St. Louis World's Fair and in Theodore Roosevelt's inaugural procession.

Soviet Planes Buzz US

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Soviet aircraft carried out a 12hour reconnaissance mission Monday off the U.S. East Coast from bases in Cuba, the Pentagon reports.

A Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday it was the first time the Russians had flown such a mission from Cuba and returned there, although such aircraft have been in Cuba before.

The Soviet aircraft were tracked by land-based radar and U.S. Navy jets from the aircraft carrier Forrestal. The Pentagon said they were about 50 miles off the U.S. mainland at their closest point.

In the past, Russian intelligence ships have been as close as four miles to the U.S. coast.

Martha Says Nothing Wrong With Her Mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martha Mitchell, saying there's nothing wrong with her mind, has denounced Republicans who are contending her husband's resignation from President Nixon's re-election campaign came because she suffered a nervous breakdown.

"I think it is rotten after all I have done for the Republican party for them to cast aspersions on me," the outspoken wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said in an interview published by the Evening Star and News today.

"I want to be sure my side is revealed and that people know I'm not sitting here a mental case or an alcoholic," she told the Star-News.

The newspaper said Mrs. Mitchell talked freely about her much-publicized ultimatum to her husband last June that he get out of politics or she would leave him but refused to discuss the alleged bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Some highly placed Republicans have contended, the newspaper said, that Mitchell left his post as head of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President because Martha suffered a nervous breakdown.

Democrats, however, have sported "Free Martha" buttons and claimed she was silenced because she knows too much.

The Star-News said Mrs. Mitchell elaborated on her account of what occurred in a hotel room in Newport Beach, Calif., last June when her telephone conversation with a reporter was cut off just as she was about to answer a question on the alleged bugging incident.

She said in an article published Tuesday that Steve King, a former bodyguard who is now head of security for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, ripped the telephone from the wall to keep her from answering the question.

And she contended King, who took over as head of security when his boss, James W. McCord Jr., was arrested in connection with the alleged Democratic bugging, threw her to the floor, kicked her and held her down when she resisted the efforts of a doctor to give her an unwanted injection.

The Star-News said Mrs. Mitchell was thinner and paler than in her last public appearances in June. "I ought to be pale," she said, "I can't even go on my balcony."

Announce Record Funds For Forests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Tuesday 39 states and Puerto Rico have received a record $85 million as their share of fee collections in national forests last fiscal year.

The money represents onefourth of receipts totaling nearly $339 million for sale of timber and other products, and fees paid for national forest use such as livestock grazing and recreation.

Under the formula, 10 per cent of the gross is kept by the U.S. Forest Service for development of roads and trails. Then, after the 25-per cent payment to states where the forests are located, the remainder is turned over to the Treasury.

The 25-per cent distribution was for payments collected in the year ended last June 30. In 1970-71 the states received about $57 million, and the previous record was $72 million in 1969-70, officials said.

By law, county authorities must use the money on public schools and public roads.

Larger timber sales accounted for most of the increase last year, the department said.

By state, the distributions included:

Missouri $594,790; Nebraska $23,730; and Oklahoma $126,568.

Moscow Admits Drug Problems

MOSCOW (AP) — In a surprising admission of a growing drug problem, the Soviet Union has introduced tough new legislation for the compulsory treatment of narcotics addicts.

A decree distributed Wednesday by the Russian Republic's Supreme Soviet, or legislature, provides for detention of persistent drug-takers for up to two years in "curative-labor dispensaries."

The decree, in the legislature's latest official bulletin, referred to an unpublished government order on "curative-labor dispensaries." The reference suggested a network of special labor camps for drug addicts was being set up.

The controlled Soviet press rarely takes note of a drug problem and officials deny one exists. The press has, however, published several specific cases of drug use over the past year.

Smoking of marijuana bootlegged from the Caucasian and central Asian republics is relatively common among students and other young people. But the Soviet Union still has no "hard drug" problem of the dimensions reached in some Western countries, especially the United States.

One of the reasons is the Soviet Union's tightly sealed frontiers. There also are stiff penalties for smuggling drugs into the country and for illegal manufacture or supply of narcotics.

The new decree applies to all adults between the ages of 18 and retirement, and in special cases to young people over 16. Retirement age is 60 for men and 55 for women.

Alcohol, especially vodka, continues to be the major intoxicant for Russians.

A penetrating wood seal may be used to finish wooden salad bowls. But be sure to use a good quality seal so that it will hold up under the use of salt, vinegar and water.
